

Executive Biography

Vladimir Bien-Aime CEO and President of Global DMS®

Vladimir Bien-Aime is CEO and Co-Founder of Global DMS, the award-winning pioneer of web-based appraisal process management software and a provider of technologies used across the mortgage process. He is an appraisal compliance expert with specific knowledge of the most current federal, state and local appraisal-related regulations, including the Dodd-Frank Act and new Interagency Guidelines, as well as initiatives such as Uniform Appraisal Dataset (UAD) and Uniform Collateral Data Portal (UCDP). He can also speak about technology innovation as it applies to the mortgage industry and the appraisal process.

Since co-founding Global DMS in 1999, Mr. Bien-Aime has grown the company to capture a leading share of the appraisal management segment, with a client base of over 100,000 unique users. He has spearheaded the company's product expansion to include a fully integrated paperless support solution, automated review system, multi-software access program and web-based forms. He is also directly involved with new technologies currently in development.

Prior to co-founding Global DMS, Mr. Bien-Aime consulted on special technology projects that involved the analysis, design and implementation of large-scale technology systems for several of the industry's leading corporations, including CitiGroup, Juniper Bank, First USA, WingSpanBank/Bank One and Standard & Poors, as well as for pharmaceutical giants Merck and SmithKline Beecham. He has worked in the appraisal industry with Appraisal.com/Day One Appraisal Software as a systems engineer, and in information technology for the Department of Environmental Protection.

Vladimir Bien-Aime is active in the mortgage valuation segment. In addition to regular meetings with GSEs and the lending community, he regularly presents at industry conferences, conducts webinars and thought leadership panels and authors articles for the mortgage press.
