

Why buy your supplements from an authorized healthcare provider?

Designs for Health distributes professional quality medical foods and dietary supplements through qualified healthcare professionals. Designs for Health products are scientifically formulated to support specific aspects of health and are recommended by practitioners who understand the health of those to whom the product is recommended. Online retailers such as Amazon, eBay, Craigslist, etc., are not authorized to sell Designs for Health products.

Designs for Health cannot guarantee the quality or safety of any products sold by unauthorized sellers. Designs for Health is one of several brands that have discovered a number of problems with products that are being sold online by unauthorized sellers.

In some cases unauthorized online sellers are selling products that are:

- Old, expired or past their freshness date. These products have often lost potency and likely will not meet label claim for listed ingredients.
- Counterfeit products. As is the case with other products such as watches, handbags, movies and many others, there are counterfeit sellers in the dietary supplement industry. Unscrupulous individuals sell products with unknown ingredients and quality, and label them with counterfeit labels of brand name manufacturers. These counterfeit products are often sold online at a “discount.”
- Damaged goods with broken seals, lack of environmental controls, or previously opened and resealed for sale. Unscrupulous individuals may attempt to dump damaged products by selling them online at a discount.
- Sold by “Bait and Switch.” Since DFH has one of the most desirable brands in the supplement market, resellers often market the DFH brand online, even though they don’t have it available to sell. Once the buyer calls they are often told that the DFH brand is not available (bait). An inferior brand is then offered as an alternative (switch).

Our office is an authorized seller of Designs for Health products. We stand behind the quality and purity of every product we sell. Our purpose in offering these products is to help you achieve optimum health. We encourage you to utilize products that you can trust from this office or from any authorized healthcare provider.