Process Modeling & Re-engineering

Facilitated process modeling sessions help your organization visually represent your to-be business process. Guided re-engineering is provided by experienced Elegrity consultants to help you identify efficiency gains, risk management opportunities and strategic responsibility shifts to deliver true organizational agility that wasn’t possible without automation.

Process Automation

See your business and functional requirements come to life. We codify your process requirements into an automated workflow system. We facilitate associated data collection through intuitive browser screens. We bring it all together by leveraging the information you already have within your back-end business systems. We facilitate collaboration, but all in accordance with your defined rules.

Intelligent Process Improvement

How are your business processes really working? Identify bottlenecks, eliminate unnecessary or overly burdensome tasks, and achieve true continuous improvement based on knowledge, not guess-work. Incrementally improve and extend your processes, delivering ongoing value and ROI to your business within a consistent, intuitive user experience.
