

LETRS INSTITUTES: OPEN AND TOT SERIES

WHAT IS LETRS?

LETRS® (Language Essentials for Teachers of Reading and Spelling) professional development by literacy expert Louisa C. Moats, Ed.D., comprises a complete course of study that provides the deep foundational knowledge necessary to understand how students learn to read, write, and spell—and why some of them struggle.

WHO NEEDS LETRS?

LETRS is appropriate for reading, language, and literacy teachers, administrators, and professional developers.

INITIAL TRAINING

LETRS Open Training offers the in-depth training necessary to make reading instruction better at every grade level, regardless of the core reading curriculum in use. Attendees can select from the following institutes: Modules 1–3, Modules 4–6, and Modules 7–9. The institutes are equivalent to graduate-level coursework. Attendance at an institute is a prerequisite to attend a TOT session.

TRAINING OF TRAINERS (TOT)

LETRS TOT is designed for staff developers and reading coaches who provide high-quality professional development for their district/agency staff. Participation in initial training on the same module set facilitated by a national LETRS trainer is a prerequisite to attend a TOT session. Participants must meet additional qualification standards to be fully certified as a local LETRS trainer. For more information on the certification process, go to www.lettrs.com.
