News and Tips to Make Your Life Easier, Safer, and Happier...

The Hauswirth Report

Last month we wrote to you about a contest that we were sponsoring along with the Lacey Food Bank to help them fill their shelves.

During the summer months, with school being out and many people taking part in summer activities, family reunions, and vacations, the food bank does not receive as many contributions as they do the rest of the

So, we decided to pitch for the families that offered a grand prize of cert on June 27th at the port the results of this ton of non-perishable cash donations.

We had many bags of food the Lacey Food Bank itin and hold a contest to raise awareness need food assistance in our community. We two tickets to see the Beach Boys in con-PNC Bank Arts Center. I am happy to refood drive: we received more than a 1/2 food staples and more than $1,200.00 in dropped off at our office as well as at self. Thanks to the efforts of our newest residents in the Seabreeze community off Lacey road, who donated several dozen bags of groceries, we helped a lot of people!

I'm still waiting to hear back from our good friends Barbara and Tom Segrich, who were the winners of the VIP tickets to the Beach Boys concert. Maybe they're both going out to buy surfboards today?

In any event, Margareth and I would like to thank Lacey Food Bank co-chairs Laura and Capt. Pete for their time and generosity in helping us make this campaign a success. We want all of you to know that the Lacey Food Bank is there for residents in need 52 weeks a year. They need our help in this worthy cause now more than ever. Laura, Pete, and I are already planning for more campaigns during the course of the year, and we will certainly be doing another contest during 2013.

Being Involved in Your Teen's Driving Instruction May Save Their Life

Legislation proposed by the NJ Assembly Transportation and Public Works Committee in Trenton was passed last week by the full assembly and would strengthen the education and practice requirements for New Jersey's Graduated Driver's Licensing program.

Currently, teens age 16 and up will first obtain a student learner's permit, a probationary license, then a basic driver's license. To get a student learner's permit, teens must pass a knowledge test, vision test, and finish a driver training course (6 hours behind the wheel) among MVC Agency requirements.

Under the new proposed legislation, the permit phase of the state's graduated driver's license would be extended from six months to one year for all new drivers ages 16 to 20 before they become eligible for a probationary license. During that 12 month period, they will be required to log 50 hours of practice driving, supervised by a parent or guardian, before becoming eligible for the probationary license.

Recent studies have shown that parents or legal guardians who are involved in their children's driving instruction may help decrease the potential for behind-the-wheel motor vehicle accidents caused by youthful operators. Incidents involving motor vehicle accidents, violating curfews, texting while driving, and driving while intoxicated all decrease substantially where there is greater parental involvement.

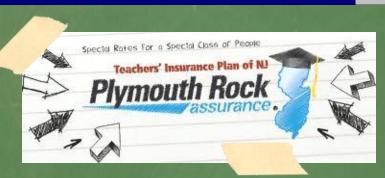

We can only hope the state Senate also approves a similar measure and that our Governor signs this into law.

Introducing...

We would like to formally introduce a new program for NJ Teachers created by Plymouth Rock Assurance.

Teachers' Insurance Plan of NJ

recognizes the selfless contributions of New Jersey's educators and school employees. We are proud to exclusively serve this special group with preferential rates on auto insurance and unique education-based benefits. Because we only insure members of the educational community, we can offer lower rates than companies that insure everyone.

Signature Programs:

Get Home Safe - for when you're too tired to drive, had a little too much wine at dinner, or just don't feel safe driving, you don't have to. We'll cover your cab fare once a year up to $50

Drivers who switch to Teachers' Insurance save an average of $700 a year!

There are other great benefits too! Teachers' Insurance Plan of NJ also provides grants and scholarships to school districts that participate in the Quotes for Cash program, as well as provide extra cash funds to New Jersey schools.

In fact, Forked River Elementary School in Lacey Township won a $600 grant this year from Teachers' Insurance which allowed them to sponsor a "Family Chess Night'. Why chess? Chess "develop[s] young minds and also meets curriculum standards for gifted education, mathematics," language arts and higher level thinking skills," according to Plymouth Rock Spokeswoman Melissa Degennaro.
