HR Allen Consulting Services Launches BlogTalkRadio Show

Sacramento' HR Allen Consulting Services looks to update and educate California employers and HR professionals on HR and employment law trends and topics

If you're a California employer or HR professional, you need to keep up with HR trends and laws. To help you, we've started a free weekly podcast, "HR Informant," on BlogTalkRadio.

Michael Allen, the president of HR Allen Consulting Services, states that his company is a full-service human resource management and payroll outsourcing company that helps small to midsize companies in California, Arizona and Nevada." Mr. Allen serves as the host on the podcast, where he focuses on one topic each week and takes questions that listeners call in or post in a chat format, providing for lively conversations. The show will also host guest speakers, which include employment law lawyers and other HR experts.

As you know, labor law in California seems to change and get more complex almost daily. My goal is to keep you up-to-date on changing laws and trends that can affect your job and your business, and to do it in an interesting and engaging format, mentioned Michael Allen.

The "HR Informant" podcast airs each Wednesday at 1 p.m. Each program lasts about 30 minutes. If you miss the live show, BlogTalkRadio.com archives the program and you can listen to it later. All you need to listen to the podcast is your computer. Simply go to <http://www.blogtalkradio.com/hr-informant-podcast> to hear the current program or to look through the archive of past shows.
