

Origin International Inc. New Equator™ Authoring Announcement

Richmond Hill, ON, Canada March 21, 2013 – Murray Desnoyer, President and founder of Origin International Inc is proud to announce the continued expansion of its unique gauging solutions product line. The newest offering is Origin's shop-floor flexible solution - A customised Renishaw Equator™ flexible gauge which includes Origin's Equator™ authoring software.

The authoring software module allows the end-user to create a part programs on their existing Co-ordinate Measuring Machine (CMM), measure the "master part". Origin's authoring software module creates from the part program and the measured results file, two files used on the Renishaw Equator™ with a click of a button.

These files are part programs converted from the end-users inspection software package to the format needed by the Equator™, and a calibration file generated from the measured results.

The Origin authoring software will let almost immediate use of the Renishaw Equator™ after measurement of the golden part.

Origin has developed and sold advanced analytical metrology software for the manufacturing world for more than 25 years. Some of these modules are available for the Origin Flexible Gauging Solution, these are SoftOrient™ alignments, SoftFit Solver™ analysis and report generation.

Since 1992, Origin International Inc. has built an outstanding reputation in the CMM industry. Origin built this reputation by providing superior CAD<>CMM integration software solutions based on a totally open system approach that helps clients get the most from their CAD and CMM investments. Today, more than ever, we are committed to "Making Sense of Measurement".
