Vancouver, BC (April 18, 2008) – Plus Computer Solutions Ltd., one of the largest Sage Accpac ERP solution providers in North America, recently completed a software and system implementation for Amix Salvage and Sales Ltd., with phenomenal results.

Amix Salvage and Sales Ltd. has been in the salvage industry for over 30 years. With a 16 acre facility, a fleet of barges and tugs, three subsidiary companies, and a huge inventory of salvaged scrap metal, Amix needed a better solution to keep track of it all. Amix turned to the professionals at Plus Computer Solutions for a robust, end-to-end accounting solution that could meet the rising demands of their operation and keep up with company growth.

Dave Dungey, Controller for Amix remarks, “We had been conducting business operations at our four locations with the inability to share any of the inventory and financial data with our main office. With each site having to process their inventory, accounting, financial and sales reports individually, we lacked a system that provided an accurate financial picture of the whole business. The team at Plus Computer Solutions Ltd. showed superior technical expertise and outstanding customer service along with providing an automated solution that had the capability to bring each of our four business locations under one universal system.”

Sage Accpac ERP was the solution of choice for Amix, offering a reasonable price point with the capability for upgrade options down the road. Glen Mund, President of Plus Computer Solutions Ltd. states, “The benefit of working with this product is that we were able to offer a well rounded solution with the basic out-of-the-box software, which enabled us to keep the cost low without sacrificing the software’s functionality for Amix’s specific business operations.”

For Amix, bringing all of their companies under one inventory and financial system has changed the way they conduct and evaluate business. With the ability to process purchases on location, provide a professional receipt, and maintain historical sales information that no longer has to be re-keyed into the system, Amix finally has the tools in place to provide them with accurate and timely information regarding their financial status which has allowed them to make appropriate business decisions. “Creating invoices, generating receipts and documenting financials within the retail side of the business is 100% faster thanks to the elimination of duplicate data entry.” Dave comments. “As a result of our outstanding working relationship with the team at Plus, we look forward to our continued partnership as we engage their support and expertise in the future.”
