Working with NetSuite

The Valogix Inventory Planning SuiteApp's two-way interface automatically syncs with NetSuite and NetSuite OneWorld, and enables advanced demand planning and inventory planning across multiple business units.

In addition to the Valogix Inventory Planning SuiteApp announcement, Valogix is also announcing a new innovation in its proprietary planning engine VALOGIX® DMRP. This new advancement allows companies to simultaneously plan for both Distribution Resource Planning (DRP) and Material Requirements Planning (MRP) in a single application.

"By incorporating the ability to plan for both distribution and production requirements in a single planning engine, the new SuiteApp enables a broader range of NetSuite users to receive the benefits of automated inventory planning from Valogix," said Tom Glacken, Senior VP of Sales and Marketing at Valogix.

Valogix manages a virtually unlimited number of items locations, forecasts and plans, and determines the optimal stocking quantity of inventory items, while tracking the total inventory value including active, excess, and obsolete inventory. "Optimization of both DRP and MRP in a single application provides NetSuite users with exceptional value by reducing inventory safely, controlling new purchases and improving customer service for businesses of all sizes," Said Glacken.

"The Valogix Inventory Planning SuiteApp is a value added extension for NetSuite customers with advanced planning needs," said Guido Haarmans, NetSuite's Vice President of Business Development for Technology Partnerships. "The two-way interface automatically synchronizes with NetSuite and even supports advanced demand and inventory planning across multiple geographies and subsidiaries for NetSuite OneWorld customers."
