

What does the Online Classroom look like

class discussions

As in the traditional classroom, you'll engage in classroom discussions.

The online difference:

You'll type your thoughts and post them on a discussion board.

BENEFITS TO A DISCUSSION BOARD:

You WILL have time to:

- Breathe / Reflect
 - Warm up your coffee
 - Comment with purpose
- Thinking and speaking on a discussion board is less impulsive and more reflective.*

You WON'T:

- Feel lost or have to be afraid of chiming in during a discussion
- Feel like hiding in the back of the classroom
- Have to hold back when you have a great idea

group work

As in the traditional classroom, you'll collaborate in groups.

The online difference:

How you do it!

Meet face to face

On the phone

Skype

Email

Share your documents on a community hard drive like Dropbox.

course readings & videos

As in the traditional classroom, enrolled students require the use of course documents and videos during the semester.

The online difference:

Online access to EVERY document and video, ALL the time – 24/7

WHY THIS IS GREAT NEWS:

Eco-friendly

Organization

Flexibility

Accommodating

Work paper-free, at your own pace from wherever you want – No more misplaced syllabus!

the e-learning experience

Online classrooms have a lot in common with traditional classrooms: you'll receive the same assignments, you'll hear guest lecturers, and you'll have the opportunity to question and get feedback from your professors.

The online difference:

You just get more.

Expanded Expert Commentary

Nationally recognized experts in the fields of education, reading, mathematics and psychology are presented to you in short digestible videos. Watch, and rewatch all on your own time.

More Diversity

The online classroom:

- Defies borders and geography
- Gives students the chance to interact with students from all over the country and the world.
- Allows all students to engage in classroom activity without being judged. Culture, religion, race or age are no longer hurdles. All students have the opportunity to participate in the same classroom experience as their peers.

What if I am confused or need to receive clarification from my professor?

Timely Feedback

If you get stuck, it is important to note that while you may be physically alone ... the e-student is NOT alone. Your professor may not keep traditional office hours, but lines of communication are always open and professors are timely in their responses. And of course, you will also have a network of peers that you can call upon as well. You will get the support you need!

To find out more about Marygrove College's online Master in the Art of Teaching (MAT) program, contact us at: (855) 628-6279 or info@marygrove.edu.