

Say It Another Way

“Most of the men that I have dated have been extroverts.”

- “In the past I have mostly dated extroverts.”
- “I usually only date extroverts.”
- “For the most part I have dated outgoing people.”

“They have ended up being obnoxious”

- “They have turned out to be annoyed.”
- “They have been irritating.”

“They have not been people that I want to get to know.”

- “They have not been people that I want to get close to.”
- “They haven’t been people that I am interested in.”

“Well personally I like to date guys who are introverts.”

- “In my opinion, it’s better to date guys who are introverts.”
- “I prefer to date guys who are quiet.”

“Once he came out of his shell he had a lot of interesting things to say.”

- “Once he became more confident he had a lot of interesting things to say.”
- “After he got more comfortable he had a lot to talk about.”

“I am more of an ambivert.”

- “I can be an extrovert or an introvert depending on the situation.”
- “I have qualities of both an extrovert and an introvert”

“They (people) tend to bring that (personality characteristic) out in me”

- “I usually express that personality characteristic more when I am around them.”
- “I tend to act that way when I am around them.”