Talking Points for Standing Rock

Say No

- The Land Treaty of 1851 grants this land to the native tribes of the region—on that basis alone this pipeline should be stopped or rerouted.
- Join the 300 Tribes (90 on site) and 500 Clergy at Standing Rock who say no to the pipe.
- The original path of the pipe was close to Bismark ND where affluent white people did not want it.
- Exponential math shows greenhouse gas will soon skyrocket—we need to switch to renewables.
- Microfractures and leakage of highly toxic Benzene will occur and contaminate groundwater.

Say Yes

- Profit
NRG is a Fortune 200 company. It serves 3 million power customers in the US. NRG reports that of their technologies (natural gas, coal, solar, wind, distributed generation, nuclear) that solar power is twice as profitable as any other modality.
- Jobs
The solar industry only accounts for 2% of energy production in the US yet puts more people to work than the fossil fuel extraction industry. (Danny Kennedy: Sungevity and CalCEF)
- Math
Exponential math indicates the cost of solar will go down precipitously while power outputs go up paving the way for the solar revolution we need.

Talking Points to Stop Fracking

Say No

- Halt climate change—stop burning fossil fuels!
- The “birthplace of fracking” Denton TX, has banned fracking following a town referendum.
- Jobs. A fracking project lasting 6 years in Lancashire UK would create 22 jobs. Insulating homes in North West UK would create thousands of jobs in 5 years and cut energy bills.
- Earthquakes. Oklahoma, home to hundreds of fracking sites, is now more earthquake-prone than California. 1990 – 2008, Oklahoma had only three quakes per year over 3.0 on the Richter. In 2013, Oklahoma had 109 quakes, 238 as of June 2014.
- Pennsylvania, a major fracking state, has just admitted that fracking has contaminated local water supplies 243 times in 22 counties.
- In California 3 billion gallons of fracking waste just leaked into aquifers containing precious drinking water reserves for residents.
- Josh Fox’s film “Gasland” illustrates that homes affected by fracking have flammable water.
- An enemy of drought. Fracking requires as much as 8 million gallons of water for one project.

LET YOUR VOICE BE HEARD TO DAPL FUNDERS

In keeping with the peaceful protesters at Standing Rock communicate with funders and politicians respectfully. Let the companies know you won't do business with them. For a complete list of DAPL funders (these companies fund fracking also) see the Food and Water Watch site at: www.foodandwaterwatch.org/news/who's-banking-dakota-access-pipeline

Here is a short list of funders: Wells Fargo Bank, CitiBank, Energy Transfer Partners, Bank of America, J.P. Morgan, Goldman Sachs, Mill Valley hedge fund SPO Partners, Oasis Petroleum, Sunoco Logistics, Energy Transfer Equity, Morgan Stanley. . .
