Dear Valued Supplier,

We are very pleased to announce the acquisition of Laserage Technology Corporation (and its wholly owned subsidiary Venta Medical) by AMETEK, Inc. AMETEK is a global and diversified industrial company, publicly traded on the New York Stock Exchange and headquartered in Berwyn, PA.

As a valued supplier of Laserage, we want to keep you informed on the facts pertaining to the sale of the business. Accordingly, please find the attached copy of the press release from AMETEK detailing the transaction. We will continue to promptly inform you of any events or changes that may occur as Laserage transitions over to AMETEK.

Laserage will continue to operate as an integral business unit under AMETEK's Engineered Medical Components Division. Laserage will remain at its two current locations in Waukegen, IL and Milpitas, CA and continue to focus on providing high quality laser processing, component assembly, and catheter development to its customers. We are very excited about this change in ownership. The new business combination will be highly beneficial to our customers, suppliers, employees and our company.

We look forward to continuing the long-term relationship that we have established with all of our suppliers. We are confident that being part of AMETEK's Engineered Medical Components Division will enable Laserage to grow the business more aggressively by expanding into new markets and technology opportunities.

If you have any questions or concerns in the meantime, please feel free to contact your Laserage counterpart. Thank you for your continued support as a valued supplier.

Sincerely,

Kurt Goos
