

How does the content of classifieds ads affect the behavior of site visitors?

A survey made by Next Consulting in collaboration with Besedo

SUMMARY

MAIN FINDINGS

IS IT RELEVANT?

Consumers clearly don't have any patience with irrelevant or missing information. When shown an ad lacking relevant content nearly 80% said that they would not return to the site where it was posted, nor recommend it to others. Scams, illegal and inappropriate content are often discussed as the biggest concern in the industry but our findings were that lack of relevant information gave the most immediate negative impression and a gut reaction was to turn away.

INAPPROPRIATE CONTENT

The listing containing racism and nudity was the second least favorable. This means that the buyers found an ad without relevant information more disturbing than inappropriate content. We don't mean you should keep disturbing texts and images on your site, but again lack of information is something you shouldn't turn a blind eye to.

SCAM DETECTION FAILURE

Buyers are (downright) bad at detecting scams. 43% of the respondents were likely to act in favor of the scammer on the ad. This is just emphasizing the importance of protecting your users from fraudsters by keeping your site clean from such content.

SUMMARY

LACK OF TRUST

Even though the genuinely good listing was perceived the best, 1/3 of the respondents still shied away due to lack of trust. This points to a general skepticism and the need to patiently continue the job of earning the trust of your audience and strengthen your brand.

COUNTERFEIT

Less than 50% spotted the counterfeit, even though this was very apparent and clearly stated in the ad. Yet another area where you need to step in and help your users making the right choice.

EUROPEAN SKEPTICISM

Brits seem to be more skeptical than Americans, as they continuously failed to take desired actions on the ads shown to them. Keep this in mind if you have to prioritize your moderation efforts between different markets.

ABOUT THE SURVEY

WHY IS THIS SURVEY NEEDED?

Does the content of your classifieds ads affect your users behavior and perception of your site?

We have seen numerous examples of sites getting into trouble when loosing control of the content on their sites.

We are also seeing that more brands are putting resources, time and money into building their brands with big campaigns and expensive commercials.

But are these sites really living up to their brand promises? How does content quality affect visitors to a site, and how is quality perceived?

We wanted to find out. This is why we initiated this survey.

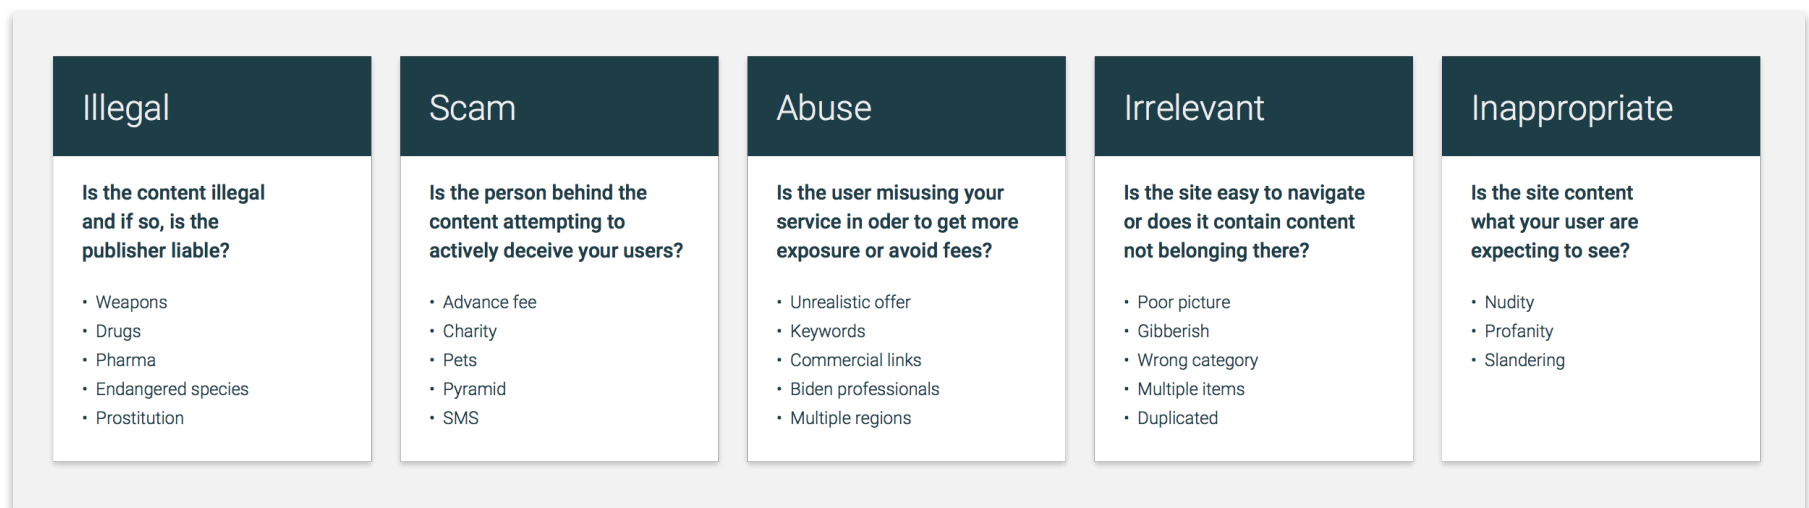

We contracted NEXT Research & Consulting to perform this study. NEXT is a firm specializing in market research within the Customer Experience field. Read more about NEXT (in Swedish only):

ABOUT THE SURVEY

WHAT DID WE WANT TO INVESTIGATE?

The purpose of this survey was to find out how different types of bad content in classifieds ads is perceived by the general public and how it affects the willingness to perform desired actions like buying the product, recommending or returning to the site.

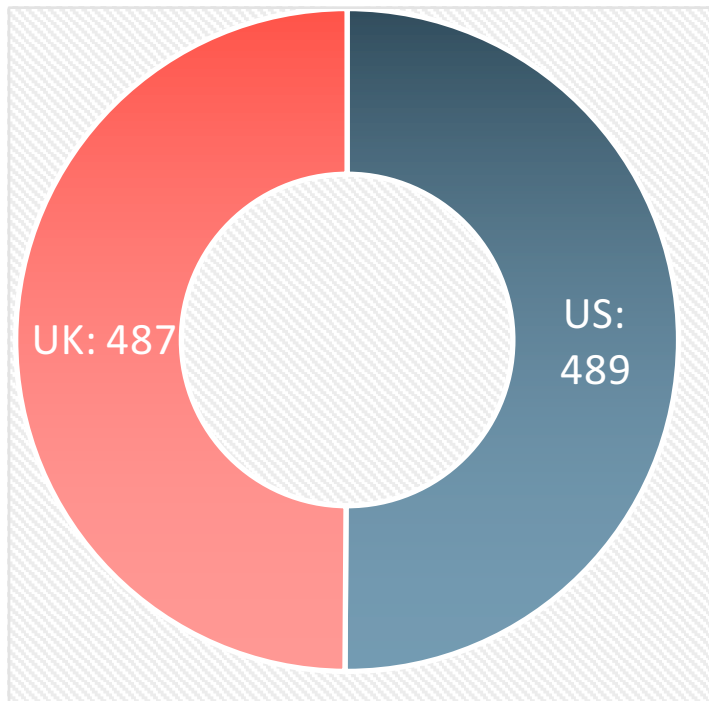

The definition of bad content is based on “Besedo’s 5 layer quality model”, which identifies and categorizes bad content into the following 5 layers:

ABOUT THE SURVEY

THE METHOD WE USED AND PEOPLE WE INCLUDED

Targeted age 18-75

Web panel using cint.com

December 9-23, 2015

30 of the respondents have been removed from the data set since they failed to follow some of the given instructions.*

ABOUT THE SURVEY

THE INSTRUCTIONS THE RESPONDENTS WERE GIVEN

- The respondents were shown six different fake ads for an iPhone 6.
- The ads were designed to look like “typical” classifieds listings with different types of “bad” content* and they were placed in random order.
- The respondents were asked to imagine they were out to buy a phone from a classifieds site, and answer a set of questions about which desired actions they would take.

Based on Besedo's 5 layer model.*

 Desired actions in this survey included to buy this or any other products, return to the site, put their own items up for sale or recommend the site to others.*

SUMMARY

RANKING OF THE ADS

How the respondents ranked the ads based on how they impact their opinion of the site.

Ranking	Type of Ad (1= highest 6=lowest)	Average ranking (1-6 where 1 is the most positive and 6 is the most negative)
1	Good Listing	2.3
2	Scam Ad	2.5
3	Promotional Offer	3.1
4	Counterfeit	3.2
5	Inappropriate Image & Text	4.0
6	Irrelevant Information	4.1

The Good Listing gave the best site impression and ranked no 1. Not far behind was the typical Scam ad. This is obviously alarming since it points at a very high risk for buyers to be defrauded.

The ad with Irrelevant Information gave the least favorable impression of the site and hence ranked the lowest. Almost as badly perceived was the Inappropriate Image & Text ad.

AD 1: THE GOOD LISTING

This ad was designed as a legitimate ad without any deliberate flaws or bad content.
