Janus International and PTI Security Systems Announce a Joint Marketing and Support Agreement
Janus and PTI are Working Together to Promote and Integrate Each Other's Products and Services to the Self Storage Industry on an International Basis

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

(Temple, GA & Scottsdale, AZ – August 17, 2015) Janus International Group, LLC and PTI Security Systems (PTI) announced a joint marketing and support agreement. Under the terms of the agreement, Janus International and PTI will work together to promote and integrate each other's products and services to the Self Storage industry.

Janus International will be responsible for the design, development, manufacturing, marketing, sell, support and warrant individual self storage door locking solutions. PTI will be responsible for same logistically aspects for the control and security solutions focused on the entire self storage facility. Together they will collaborate on the design, development and integration of the products from both companies to provide a complete product and service solution providing a secure interior (inside-the-door) electronic lock, automated overlocking, and continuously monitored security and access control to individual self storage units. The locking solution will integrate seamlessly with PTI Security Systems industry leading access control and security solutions.

Regarding the agreement, David Curtis, President of Janus International remarked "we are delighted to put this agreement in place with PTI Security Systems. From our perspective, the key to providing a superior door locking solution, is to be able to integrate and leverage the expertise, hardware and software solutions and market share that PTI Security Systems has demonstrated and obtained in the self storage access control and security arena with the expertise and experience Janus International has with self storage door solutions. Ultimately, the self storage owner/operator and their tenants will both benefit from this relationship".

Lance Comstock, President & CEO of PTI Security Systems noted "With our respective market coverage, market share domination and expertise, this agreement allows us to collaborate and focus on creating great individual door locking and access control solutions that are not found in the industry today. As the industry leader in doors and hallway systems, Janus International clearly understands and provides great door solutions, which coupled with our industry leading access control and security solutions gives us and our mutual customers a big advantage”.
