The ability to adapt quickly and painlessly is a powerful business tactic. It isn't just something for down the road. Flexibility is vital during the design, construction and move-in stages of your workspace. Once you are up and running and business demands change, you should then be confident in your ability to adapt without disruption, high costs or time wasted. DIRTT gives you that confidence.

DIRTT's built-in flexibility is designed to suit your unique needs – aesthetically, functionally and technologically. There are no standard sizes or shapes or layouts. Your tailored prefab interior will fit your chosen real estate, support your furniture, integrate your current and future technologies and exude your corporate culture. And now your real estate is a three dimensional business tool to help you execute your strategy and reach your goals.

To ensure you get what you want, DIRTT uses ICE[®] intelligent, 3D software. It shows you your workspace in graphic 3D, where you fly-through your design, make large or small modifications and see how it affects your budget – Instantly. This fly-through can be captured and shared with your stakeholders to inform and unite your company in making the best decisions.

DIRTT turns your workspace into a dynamic part of your business strategy.
