

Automated Inventory Management System

RoboCrib® from Swagelok® Northern California

Swagelok Northern California is pleased to introduce a new way to manage your inventory. With RoboCrib your inventory is dispensed in a manner similar to a traditional vending machine, but with a level of security unmatched in industry. The unique design of the system accommodates dispensing a component from inventory in less than 10 seconds.

The internal bin storage system can deliver a wide range of items, including large or small items not easily dispensed from traditional inventory vending machines. There's no need for individual repackaging of components due to the flexibility of the system. If your storage needs change, the system can easily be reconfigured.

The RoboCrib is designed to manage your inventory of Swagelok and non-Swagelok components. Standard RoboCrib solutions can stock from 500 to over 2000 items in the same space normally occupied by a regular cabinet.

A robust software application manages all inventory transactions and supports multiple levels of control and security. The user interface provides quick, reliable visibility with real-time status reports on your inventory. With the secure access control you can limit the use of any inventory item to a specific quantity per day, week, or month. RoboCrib can send instant alerts to management when a job is out of process because of abnormal component usage. You can limit access by dollar amount, departmental budget, or time restrictions by shift.

Over 150 different reports are pre-designed and built into the system and custom reports are easily created to meet your specific requirements. The system interfaces with Swagelok's business system software and the Swagelok on-line eStore.
