

Focus, drive and agility pave the road to winning performance

THE EXPERIENCE

It's the Redline Racing European Tour and you and your race team are revving to go! But, before you launch into the countryside, you'll need to determine which route will reward you with the most points – and fewest penalties. To take the victory in this high octane road race, you will need to coalesce as a focused, agile and motivated team. You'll also have to make quick, well-informed decisions at each stage along the way. But your team's decision isn't final. Via interactive voting devices, it's the majority in the room who determines the fate of the race. So, as well as contending with the pressure, pace and competition, you must influence others to reach a favorable consensus. Redline Racing is an exciting, super-engaging experience that will set hearts pounding as the finish line draws near.
