Overhead Door Company of Northern Kentucky continues to sell and service residential and commercial garage doors and openers.

Crescent Springs, KY –Although it has been announced that the production at Overhead Door Corporation's (ODC) manufacturing plant in Covington, KY will be winding down later this year, this will have no impact on the operation of Overhead Door Company of Northern Kentucky. Overhead Door Company of Northern Kentucky will continue to service, sell and install overhead door products in the local communities of Northern Kentucky, Greater Cincinnati and Dearborn County, IN as it has been for the last 63 years.

“Closing of the Covington manufacturing plant does not affect us,” said Dave Willmes, an owner of Overhead Door Company of Northern Kentucky. “There will be no changes in our products or the service we provide to our customers.”

Since Overhead Door Company of Northern Kentucky has “Overhead Door” in its name, there has traditionally been some confusion of the distributor and the manufacturing plant. Overhead Door Company of Northern Kentucky is an independent distributor of Overhead Door Corporation’s (ODC) residential and commercial garage door and operator product lines.

The Covington manufacturing plant produces component parts and, after consolidation, the production will be moved to other ODC manufacturing locations. Overhead Door Company of Northern Kentucky will continue its excellent tradition of sales and service of Overhead Door products.
