

SIDING PRICE COMPARISONS PER SQUARE FOOT

These siding price comparisons are based on an internet shopping survey on August 26, 2016 and should be helpful for a ballpark price estimate of the most commonly used siding materials.

Other Key Factors to Consider When Developing a Siding Budget for Your Project

- Be sure to get the cost of all the materials it will take to complete your project, not just the siding material. Siding accessories often add significantly to the overall cost of a project.
- The siding material you choose says a lot about you and your project and adds a lot to the overall curb appeal of your property.
- If your building material budget does not allow you to use your favorite siding material on the entire project, you may want to consider using your favorite siding on the front of your property instead, or as an accent with other siding materials.
- Think about how the siding material you ultimately select will affect the resale value of your property. Will a lower cost siding material be a benefit or a hindrance to you when it's time to sell your property?

We hope this siding price comparison chart is a helpful tool for getting a rough idea of what type of siding materials will work for your project budget. For a complete estimate, please click here for a FREE QUOTE for a rainscreen wood siding system.