Understand what's driving your business

Hospitality business is also about managing profit, customer services as well as the hotel infrastructure. Your employees need to consistently deliver a quality experience to guests, and you need to keep your properties in top shape. To do this at a profit, you need to understand and control the financial aspects of your business. This requires a financial management solution designed to help hoteliers like you manage the unique demands of a hospitality business.

Your financial management system should help you optimise the way you use your people, physical, and financial resources to meet current and future guests expectations.

Use financial information to improve performance

You need a financial management system designed for the way you collect, analyse, manage, and report on financial information. Faced with the same requirement, more than 2,200 hospitality companies worldwide have implemented Infor SunSystems for hotels. They're using the solution to improve both the visibility of their financial information and the way they use it to boost profitability.

We have helped some of the world's most successful hotels and resorts streamline processes for accessing and analysing financial data so they make better business decisions, and we have been doing this for more than 20 years.
