Science Fair Judge

The Council for Life Long Engagement recently took on a new, unique engagement. Dr. Corning Benton, a resident at Marjorie P. Lee and a member of CLLE, was presented with an opportunity to be a science fair judge for 7th and 8th grade projects at St. Andrews in Milford and at Nativity in Pleasant Ridge. He couldn't have been more excited for the challenging experience!

During his time at the schools, Dr. Benton judged over ten different projects, ranging from activity pulse rates and music affecting heart rates to wind turbine blade aerodynamics. He was amazed by the hard work each student put into their projects, from their display boards to their science fair reports.

Spending time at the science fair was by no means time wasted for Dr. Benton. "I enjoyed every minute of the experience. The displays, presentations and knowledge of the students spoke marvelously of the skill of the science faculties."

Dr. Benton hopes to participate as a judge in future science fairs. He is also excited to partner with schools this fall with the start of a new school year to help prepare students for their science fairs. Dr. Benton will share some personal insight on what students can expect at the science fair and tips for what judges look for in projects.

was the smallest part of the program. “What was most special was about the even was relating to the elders.” The residents had similar reflections. One elder commented that he had restored faith about the youth of today. CLLE’s mission is to change student’s view of elders. That mission is being realized at Nativity. A surprised outcome is how the students are changing the elders view about the younger generation!

A special thank you is extended to the residents and staff that made this event possible. Joan & Phil Maechling, Aldy Kuertz, and Jack Fix created and presented Manners 101 presentation in the classroom. Michelle Cole, Judi Dean, and Rochelle Dietz served as staff support to the residents. The following Deupree House and Marjorie Lee residents attended the luncheon:

- Helen Fix
- Jack Fix
- Mary Beth Foxworthy
- Charlotte Williams
- Mary Beth Lowry
- David Lowry
- Louise Mandell
- Betty Gruesser
- Betsy Baldwin
- Bob LaShelle
- Harriett Krumpelman
- Victor deLorenzo
- Elizabeth Williams
- Jack Williams
- Anita Korchmar

Megan Kron and Kathy Oney created a beautiful Etiquette Booklet for the students to use as a reference. Lastly, a huge thank you to Pete Juszczuk and the dining services team for hosting the luncheon!
