What is KORE Fill?

KORE Fill is a bonded bead cavity wall insulation system that is NSAI and Irish Agreement Board Approved. KORE Fill is expanded polystyrene that is injected in bead form into a wall cavity to form an insulating mass. The injected bead solidifies in the cavity with the help of a bonding agent. The end result is an insulated mass that significantly reduces thermal transmittance across the entire cavity.

Filling the cavity completely with KORE Fill will not diminish the original function of the cavity - it will still be able to breath, the bead will not absorb water and will not allow the transfer of water across the cavity to the inner leaf.

Advantages of KORE Fill Bonded Bead Cavity Wall Insulation

KORE Fill offers excellent thermal performance, immediate energy savings, specialist insulation installers and a complete insulation fill every time. Works are audited on a regular basis to ensure compliance with KORE Fill installation requirements.

The thermal performance of KORE Fill is only limited by the width of the cavity. The wider the cavity the greater the U-value can be achieved (Calculation Method I.S. EN ISO 6946).

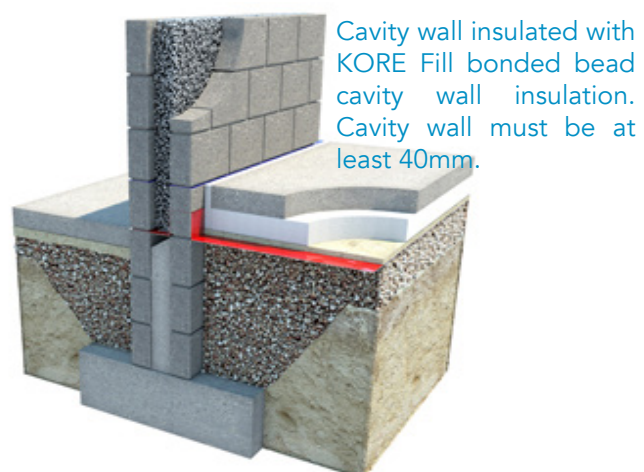

Installation of KORE Fill Bonded Bead Cavity Wall Insulation

KORE Fill bead and bonding agent is injected through drill holes into the cavity using specifically designed equipment. The material packs to a uniform density inside the cavity. Once the proper drilling pattern and injection sequence is followed, the cavity will be completely filled.

Installation of the KORE Fill cavity wall insulation must only be carried out by Airpacks Ltd or by our approved installers. This guide will act as the official register of KORE Fill installers and will be updated on a regular basis. Should you have any questions about the certification status of any installer listed please contact us directly.
