

Transit technology leaders confirmed for SmartRail USA Congress & Expo

A host of rail and metro experts from across North America are confirmed as speaking at SmartRail USA and leading two days of expert insight, practical case studies, in-depth discussion, technology launches and networking in Charlotte on 29th and 30th October.

Across two packed days, SmartRail USA will analyse, present and discuss the latest developments and innovations across rail and metro including IT, Telecoms, Operations, Passenger engagement, Fare Collection and much more. The expert speakers not only control over $3.5 billion of budget but manager over 3.3 billion passenger journeys a year.

SmartRail USA, held at the Charlotte Convention Centre lists the following as confirmed speakers: Tom Nolan (Chairman, SFMTA), Keith T. Parker (General Manager/Chief Executive Officer, MARTA), Kathy M. Haley (President, Union Pearson Express), Doug Allen (CEO, Virginia Railway Express), Andrew Bata, (Chief Officer of Strategic Improvements and best practices, NYCT), Phillip Washington (General Manager, RTD Denver), Dan Dawson (Vice President, Marketing and Communications, Capital Metro), Dr. Larry Scott (Acting President, National Association of Railroad Passengers) and many more.

In addition to the strategic congress, this landmark event also features technical seminars focussing on key aspects of rail technology best practice including ticketing, connectivity, data, software, passenger engagement, on-board applications as well as training and product demonstrations. The Expo hall will feature over 40 cutting-edge companies displaying the latest technologies, solutions and innovations for the industry.
