

Leaders of rail and metro confirmed for SMARTRAIL ASIA 2014

A host of Asian rail and metro experts are confirmed as speaking at SmartRail Asia. These experts will be leading three days of expert insight, practical case studies, in-depth discussion, technology launches, workshops, site visits and networking at BITEC in Bangkok between the 26-28th November 2014.

SmartRail Asia's confirmed speakers include: Ankala Saibaba (Chief Engineer, Indian Railways), Somsana Ratsaphong (Director General, Lao Railways), Fillippo Scotti (Managing Director, Alstom Transport East Asia Pacific), Rommel Gavieta (Vice President, Manila Metro Rail Transit System), Mario Favaitis (Senior Vice President Engineering, SMRT), David Saldanha (Managing Director, Wavesight) and many more.

Alstom Transport's Michel Van Liefferinge said last year's SmartRail Asia was "a major event that gathered many customers and suppliers from around the world. I was impressed by the quality of the presentations allowing fruitful exchanges on the future of the industry."

Created with the help of an advisory board including Alstom, Bombardier Transportation, MTR and Thales, this is the definitive platform to share best practice and drive towards an intelligent next generation rail system and is now open for business.
