OmniComm Systems, Inc. and Soltex Consulting, LLP Announce a Strategic Partnership

Fort Lauderdale, FL, June 17, 2013 – OmniComm Systems, Inc. (OMCM), one of the fastest growing companies in the Electronic Data Capture (EDC) marketplace, and Soltex Consulting, LLP, a leading eClinical lifecycle consulting firm, announced their new strategic partnership today. The partnership will allow OmniComm to offer best-in-class process re-engineering and change management consulting to its EDC software customers, and augment OmniComm's own study build services, while allowing Soltex to offer its clients access to one of the most intuitive, productive EDC suites available on the market today.

"We look forward to a successful partnership with Soltex," said Stephen Johnson, President and COO of OmniComm Systems. "Their reputation and expertise in this industry make them the ideal company to collaborate with as we strive to deliver efficiencies throughout the clinical trial process."

"We are excited to partner with OmniComm – they are truly on the forefront of technology innovation," said Christie Mahoney, Managing Director of Soltex Consulting, LLP. "TrialMaster and TrialBuilder have much to offer in terms of speed, flexibility, and ease of use, and OmniComm has proven itself able to endure and grow in a competitive and changing marketplace. Our complementary offerings will allow us to deliver maximum value to our clients."

Under the terms of the agreement, OmniComm will be able to access Soltex Consulting's professional services capabilities to help customers drive further efficiencies in their clinical process. Soltex will become a reseller of OmniComm TrialMaster Suite and TrialOne Suite, giving clients access to a robust EDC platform, and will become a study build services provider for OmniComm products.
