

Better business outcomes start with better information.

Data is the backbone of your most important business decisions. If yours is inaccurate, hard to use, or not accessible on the go, your outcomes pay the price. Highly effective enterprise resource planning (ERP) systems that provide smarter, more usable information can significantly improve profitability, revenue growth, inventory management, and productivity. Take a look at the most recent data . . .

Companies with more effective data grow . . .

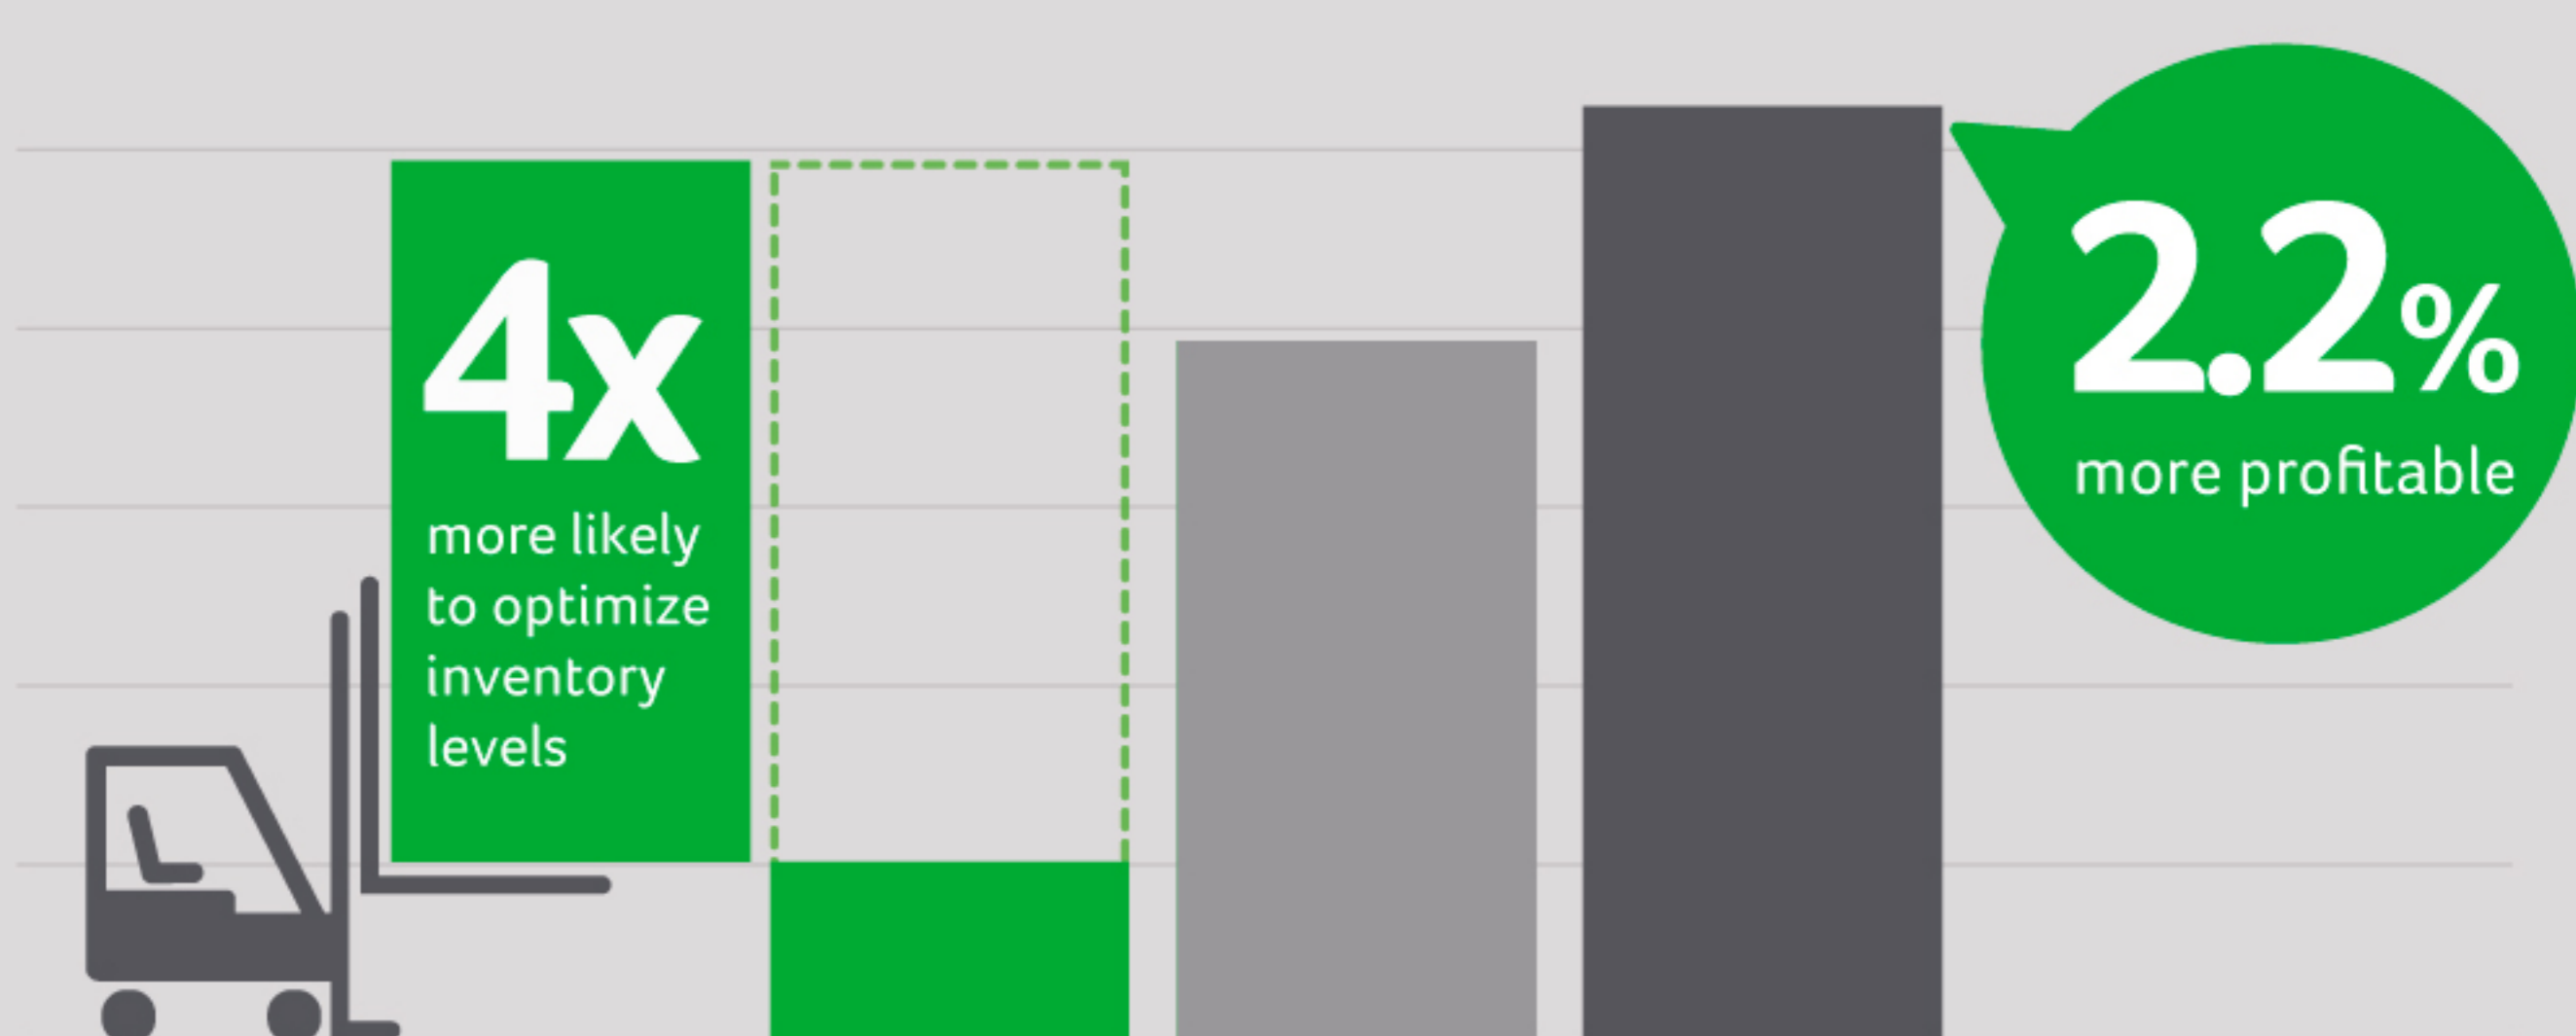

35%

faster year-over-year

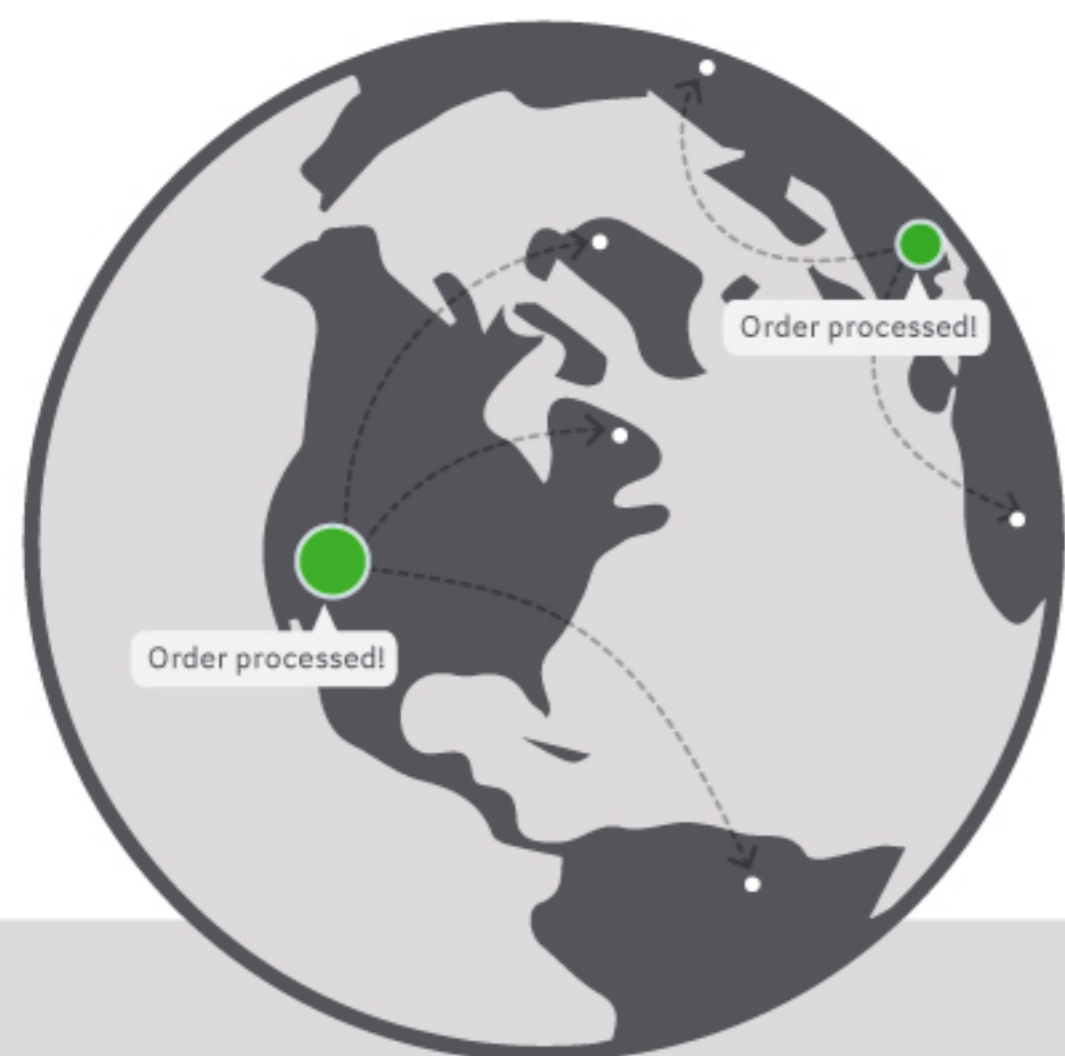

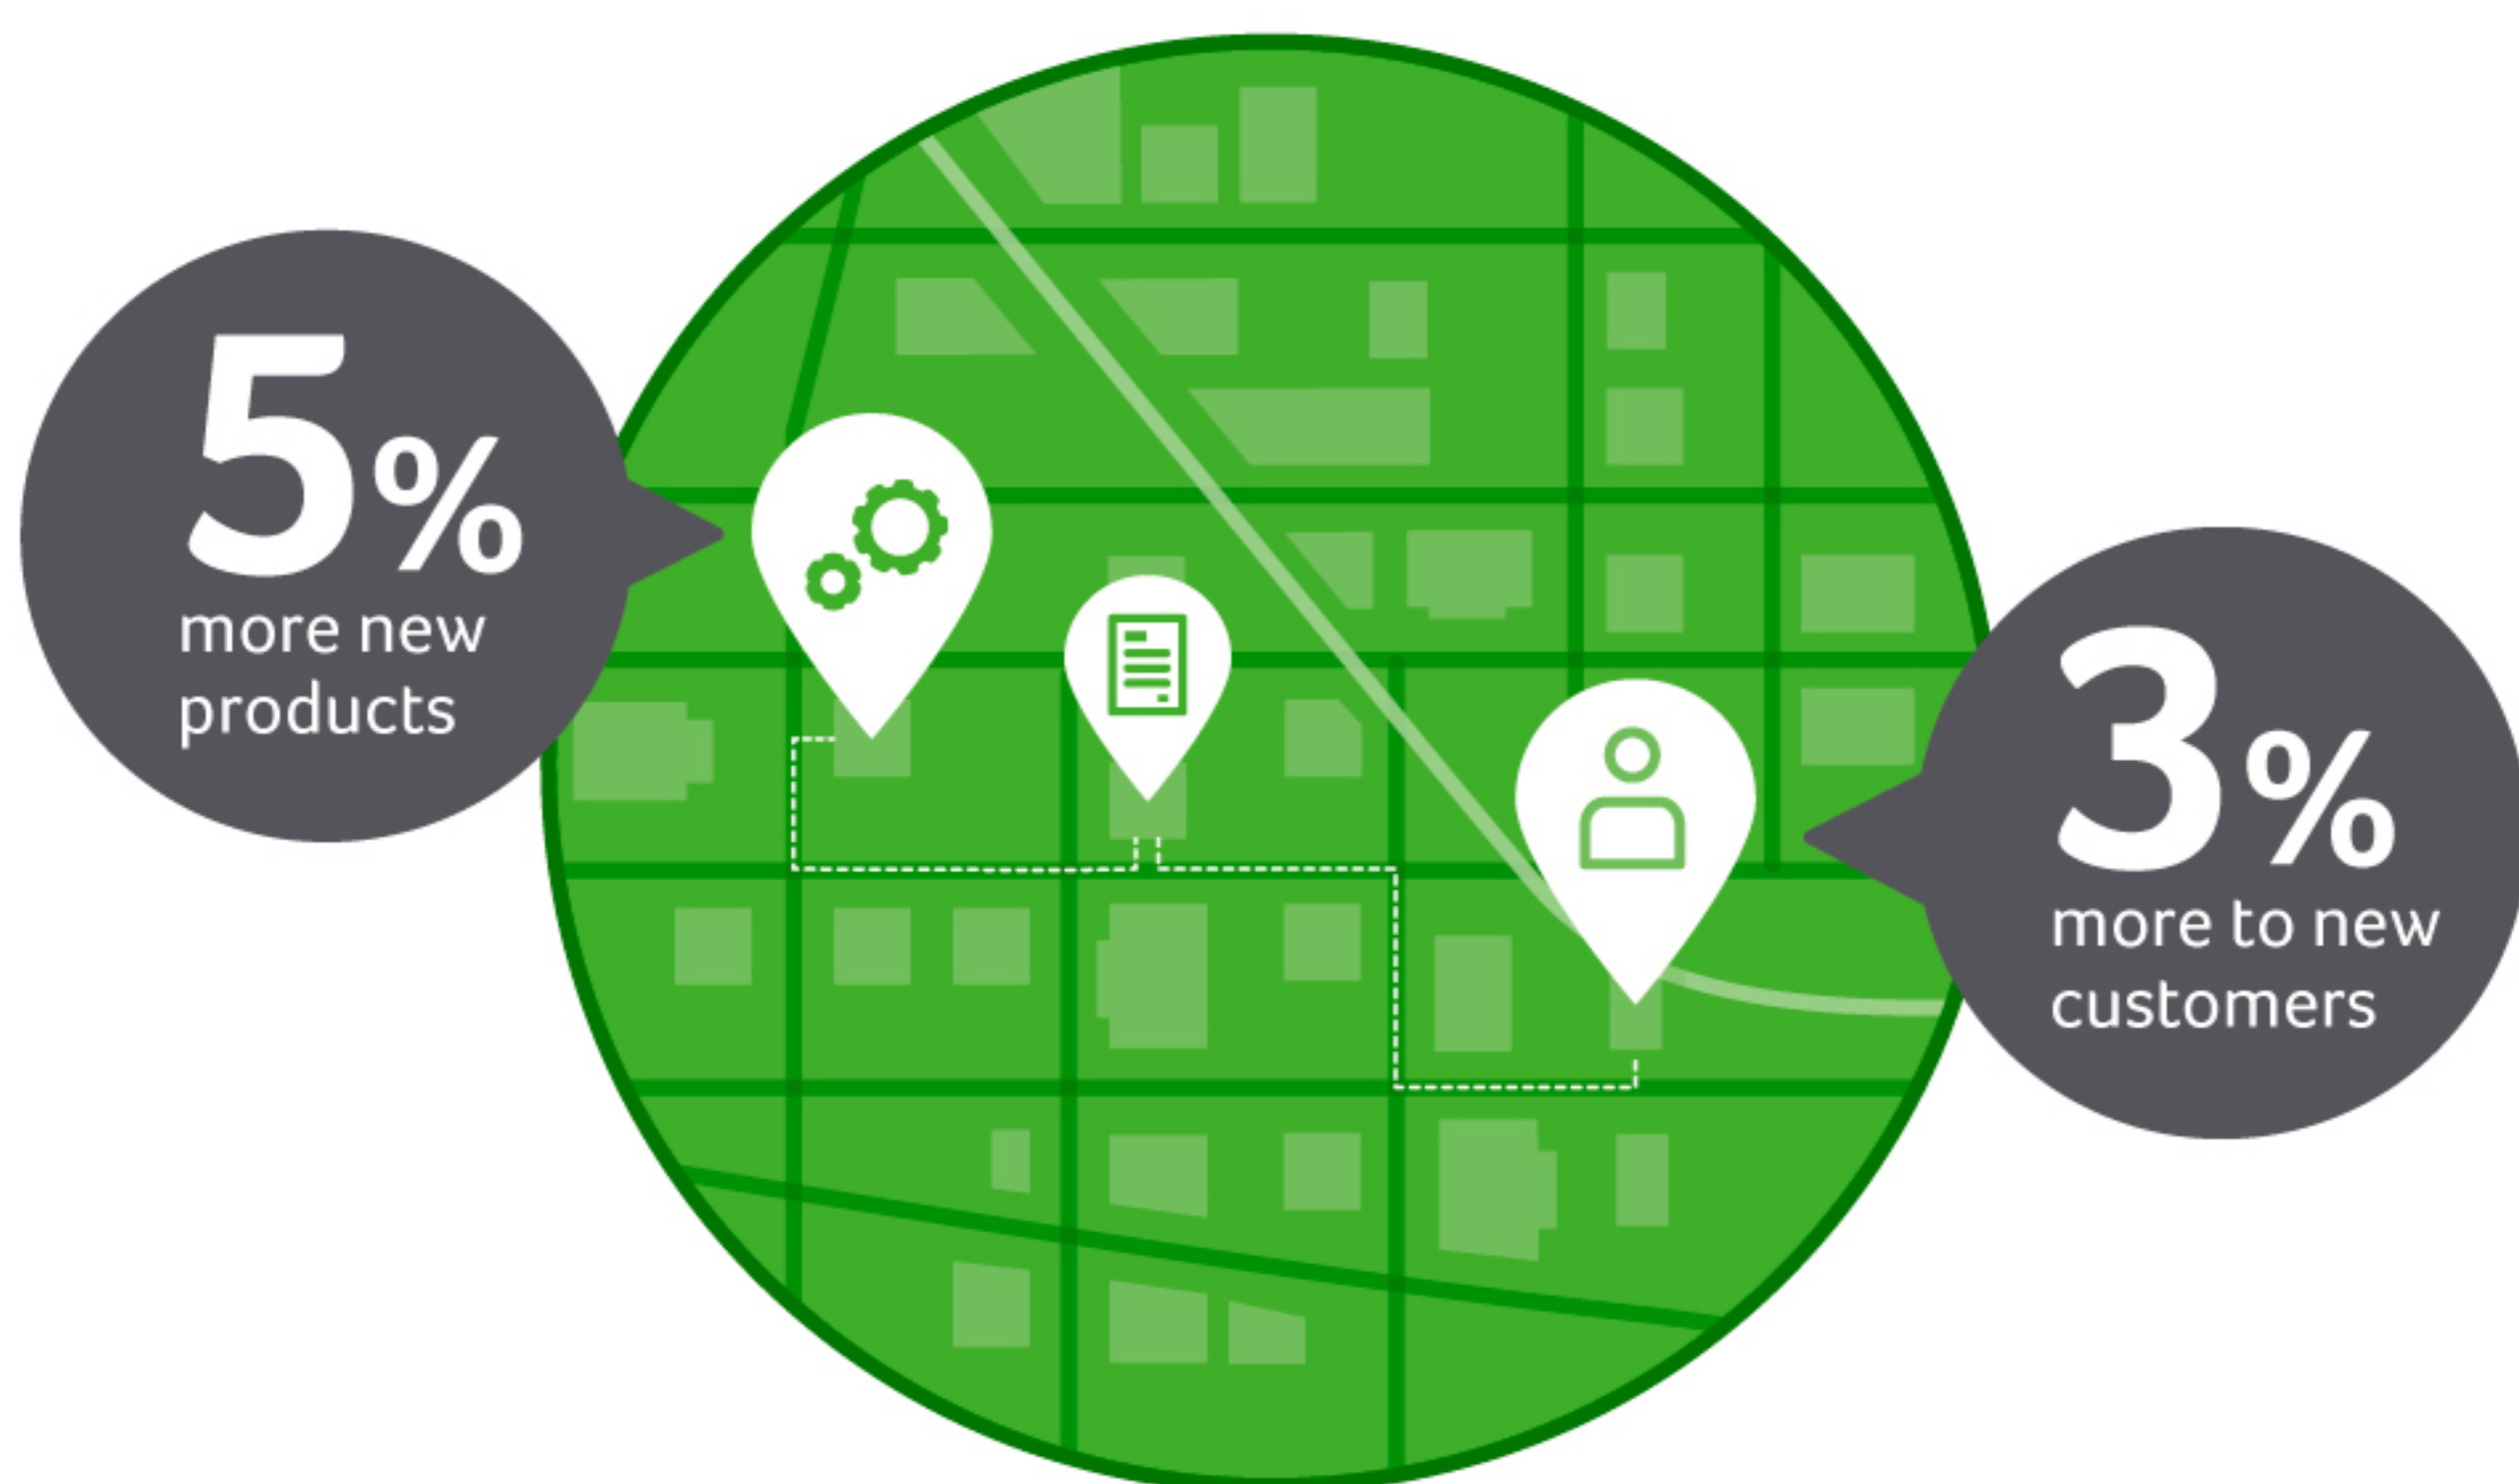

Intelligence

Companies with better intelligence are . . .

Mobility

Companies with mobile access to data sell . . .

Successful companies are

4x

more likely to process orders remotely

Usability

Companies with more usable data have a . . .

