

We're Moving to New Jersey!

2 friends having coffee in
New York City

A: So I have big news!

B: Really what? What's going on?

A: John and I are going to have a kid! And we're moving to New Jersey

B: Wow, that's great that you're pregnant, congrats!
But umm- I am not so sure about the Jersey thing.
Why would you want to leave the city? Are you crazy?

A: Oh come on, let's be real. We've been in Manhattan for 10 years.

There are too many stressors here- especially if I am going to be a new mother.
Life is just too hard- taking the subway to get everywhere- how would I do that with a stroller?

B: I don't know- just get a cab. I mean, come on- don't you want your kid to grow up and understand why diversity is so important? There is no better place to expose a kid to diversity than New York. Plus, you have everything at your fingertips here- great restaurants, good theatre, art galleries, everything.

Key Vocabulary Phrases

1. "There are too many stressors here..."
2. "...taking the subway to get everywhere..."
3. "Don't you want your kids to understand why diversity is so important?"
4. ..."You have everything at your fingertips here..."
5. "He is just a face in the crowd..."
6. "...it's just not for us anymore"
7. "Well to each his own I guess"

A: Yeah but I don't want my child to grow up feeling like he is just a face in the crowd. That's how I feel here in the city sometimes and it's a lonely feeling.

B: Well I mean your kid will have his own community, his own friends- so he won't feel like that.

A: It's just not for us anymore- we have to think about our family- so John and I have decided it's time to get out.

B; Oh man. Well to each his own I guess, but I am going to miss you. Will you promise to come visit at least once a month?

A: Yeah, we'll just be over the bridge- it's not like we're moving across the country.

B: Well Jersey feels like another country to me so- anyways let me know if you need any help on moving day- I suppose I can venture out to the 'burbs for an afternoon.

A: I'll let you know- thanks.
