Free migration of legacy data

Customer focus is one of our main values, which is why the import of legacy data and inactive mailboxes will always remain free of charge. For you, this means that you will have our undivided attention and be supported throughout the process.

Latest generation software

Jatheon's email archiving software relies on the latest search technology to let you search millions of emails in seconds using various search criteria – boolean expressions, wildcard, fuzzy and proximity operators. Apart from the blazing fast search and export, you'll love the user experience and simplified approach to retention policies and legal holds.

Full set of compliance and ediscovery features

Advanced searches and export to multiple file formats let your clients pinpoint relevant emails in millions of others and produce them quickly. Customizable retention periods will let them keep the data for as long as their unique regulations require. Audit trail will prevent data tampering, while legal hold will let them freeze relevant email for litigation.

Why Email Archiving?

Get involved in a 5 billion dollar industry

The email archiving market is growing fast and is expected to reach $8.8 billion by 2023. Archiving remains a norm in regulated industries and is becoming a new focus for investment in many others. This is an excellent opportunity for progressive MSPs who wish to enhance their product range to step into a new, booming market.

Increase sales opportunities

Email remains the primary communication channel for enterprises and SMBs alike. With as much as 75% of business-critical information residing in email, companies need efficient and secure technology to manage their email – for business continuity, compliance, litigation support and server relief. By hosting an email archive, you'll quickly expand your market, grow your business and get new revenue streams.

Offer a complementary product, in high demand

The technology behind email archiving complements a number of existing IT services and concepts, including email security, governance, infrastructure and cloud. This will let you integrate archiving into your existing product offer quickly and easily, with minimum overhead.

Manage with ease and get continuous support

Our email archiving platform is easy to deploy and manage, works smoothly with all email environments and comes with a powerful and easy-to-navigate user interface that's built for both admins and regular users. As a Jattheon MSP partner, you'll be able to rely on our in-house team of support engineers 24/7.
