Footnotes:

¹ Since receiving or declaring independence, this party has not made any declaration regarding continuation in force of the Hague Convention Abolishing the Requirement of Legalization for Foreign Public Documents. Though many Competent Authorities view these, and the states below, as parties to the Convention, in the absence of any formal declaration, one should consult the appropriate consular office in question or the U.S. Department of State prior to reliance on an Apostille. Though some Competent Authorities may prepare Apostilles, the U.S. Department of State currently does not issue Apostilles for: Angola, Comoros Islands, Guyana, Kosovo, Mozambique, and Zimbabwe.

² This country achieved independence and declared that it considers itself bound by the Convention or acceded to the Convention.

³ This Convention applies to the Special Administrative Regions of Hong Kong and Macau only, as a result of extensions made by the UK and Portugal, respectively. Upon the restoration of Hong Kong and Macau, China declared that the Convention will continue to apply for Hong Kong and Macau.

⁴ The U.S. does not recognize the claims of other nations in Antarctica. It is doubtful that an Apostille can be obtained in the U.S. for use in the British Antarctic Territory.

⁵ Documents originating from U.S. territories (American Samoa, Guam, Northern Mariana Islands, Puerto Rico, and Virgin Islands) destined for other countries do require an Apostille, as is true for Hague party countries preparing documents destined for use in U.S. territories. However, documents prepared in the U.S. for use in U.S. territories, and vice-versa, may simply require notarization or certification.

Please note: The information provided in this memo is correct and complete to the best of our knowledge but is subject to change and cannot be relied upon as legal advice.
