

An isometric illustration of a modern office space. It shows various workstations, desks, and people working. There are meeting rooms with people around tables, a reception desk, and a lounge area with sofas. The office is divided into different zones by low walls and glass partitions. The color palette is primarily blue and white, with some green accents from plants.

IMPROVE WORKPLACE OPERATIONS WITH iOFFICE IWMS

As workplaces evolve, it's important that the right technology is in place to offer support. In line with emerging workplace trends, many organizations are looking to IWMS software to increase efficiency, provide transparency, offer cost savings and improve customer satisfaction.

Here's a look at some of the biggest trends driving adoption of IWMS software:

-  SHIFT TO MORE FLEXIBLE WORKPLACE STRATEGIES
In today's workforce, 82% of millennials look at flexibility as one of the top factors in evaluating employers. To accommodate this, many organizations have made the move to more flexible workplace strategies — an infrastructure that IWMS software helps support.
-  NEED FOR DATA-DRIVEN DECISIONS
Data is an important piece of the decision-making puzzle. With IWMS software, businesses can gather and merge real-time data into a single system, making it easy for managers to find accurate information quickly.
-  DESIRE FOR GREATER COLLABORATION AND TRANSPARENCY
As businesses realize the benefits of breaking down walls in the workplace, collaboration and transparency are emerging as points of focus. IWMS software delivers tools and features that improve communication across different departments and let them effectively work together to ensure long-term success.
