

Making Sense of Apprenticeships Event

Milton Park Innovation Centre, 7 Mar 2017
08:30 – 10:00

As part of National Apprenticeship week, the Vale4Business team will be co-hosting a free event, which aims to help your business understand the benefits of apprenticeships. With the assistance of experts, we will be answering common questions surrounding the process of taking on apprentices in your organisation.

We will also be highlighting the types of support there is to assist you in the process.

We have an apprentice ambassador who will be speaking about her experiences. Emily Rose, 18, is an Analytical Chemist Apprentice with Green Biologics Ltd, based at Milton Park. Emily started her two year Level 3 Apprenticeship in September 2016.

Also speaking is Edward Collett, Head of Business Development and Marketing at Abingdon & Witney College. Ed will be providing an overview of the college's role as a training provider.

'Making Sense of Apprenticeships' will be held at Milton Park Innovation Centre on Tuesday 7 March 2017 between 08:30 - 10:00.

The programme is:

- 8.30 am Registration and refreshments (pastries and drinks)
- 8.45 am Oxfordshire Apprenticeships - overview of apprenticeships
- 9.00 am Emily Rose, Apprenticeship Ambassador - 'being an apprentice'
- 9.15 am Ed Collett, Abingdon & Witney College - How we can help your business
- 9.30 am Questions to the panel

Please note there is no parking at the centre, but there is an overflow car park a short walk away, and the centre is easy to get to by bike, foot or shuttle bus.

Please register for this free event on Eventbrite, searching for 'Making Sense of Apprenticeships'.
