Small Spaces CLE™ Features NovikShake™ in Three Exhibit Homes at the Cleveland Home & Remodeling Show

Quebec City, Quebec -- Small Spaces CLE™, a Cleveland-based tiny home building firm, will showcase the tiny home trend at the Cleveland Home & Remodeling Show, March 18 - 20, 2016, at the FirstMerit Convention Center. As a focal point of the show, along with HGTV's Property Brothers, Small Spaces CLE will exhibit three tiny homes, all with NovikShake, an easy to install, low-maintenance polymer shake with the realism of natural wood. In a color collection called StainNatural, NovikShake adds a luxurious touch to the homes' exteriors, with the only true wood stain applied to a polymer shake in the industry.

Small Spaces CLE's co-owners Carl Baldesare and Packy Hyland will demonstrate why tiny homes are one of the biggest trends in home design. Walking tours through the homes will provide inspiration for streamlining and enhancing the efficiency of any home or apartment.

Although a money-saver, the homes cost more per square ft. to build, due to the custom dimensions of every component. Retailing for $45 - $100,000, the 200 sq. ft. homes ship in one piece anywhere in the nation. Because they average 11,000 lbs., the use of lightweight building materials like NovikShake is essential for stability during transport. "With great looks, the NovikShake panels easily lock together and withstand high winds, which is essential for the shipping process," said Baldesare.

Small Spaces CLE's success story started a year and a half ago, says Carl Baldesare, as he and Hyland sensed a national trend toward downsizing, even by prominent professionals. They currently have six orders for tiny homes and they are talking to the mayor about creating a tiny village. "Homeowners are trying to simplify their home lives," said Baldesare. "They are free to travel and spend time with people they care about it." To learn more, visit www.smallspacescle.com. To learn more about NovikShake, visit www.novik.com.
