Employee engagement has become a paramount issue in today's workplace.

According to a study by Gallup, 70% of U.S. employees are "not engaged" or "actively disengaged" at work.

Engaged employees translate directly into higher productivity and profitability.

How we help.

Red Thread, in partnership with Steelcase, can help you craft a workplace strategy. We will engage your leadership and employees with workplace tools and services to understand your needs. Our team will translate your vision to reality, from design concept through implementation and ongoing support.

Does your space support your culture?

The design of the workplace has a powerful impact on how employees feel throughout their workday.

While space isn't the answer to everything, it plays a very important role in fostering a culture of engagement.

SPACE

which over time create CULTURE

How we can work together.

Every engagement is tailored to your appetite for change and timeframe, but these scenarios serve as examples:

	SKIP	JUMP	LEAP
GOALS	Refine your space, which could include surveying employee needs and implementing new settings.	Revitalize your space, which might include a live design demo experience and exploring ways to increase collaboration throughout the space.	Reimagine your space, which may include surveys and workshops, a pilot space to test new concepts, and future-proofing with flexible building infrastructure.
