ROCHESTER, MICHIGAN—(July 9, 2015) OneStream Software LLC, leader in Corporate Performance Management (CPM) solutions for the large enterprise, concluded its 2015 global user conference. On May 17 finance and consulting experts, from around the world, gathered in Boston, Massachusetts for the annual OneStream Splash User Conference. Held over four days, the Splash conference is primarily a learning event for financial industry professionals. The conference kicked off with two days of advanced OneStream training followed by an additional two days of conference sessions designed for all levels of attendees. The setting and contents helped drive discussions allowing participants to further leverage the benefits and value of the OneStream Corporate Performance Management Unified Platform.

"Year after year we are seeing the conference double in attendees. This is a testament to the value people see in what we offer at each conference," said Tom Shea, President of OneStream Software. "In my keynote presentation, I laid out our plans for development over the coming year in three major areas: additional enhancements on top of our core platform via our Fish Market Solution Store, OneStream XF Cloud and a sneak preview of OneStream Mobile."

The conference brought finance executives, consultants and partners together and provided a platform for knowledge transfer, networking, and in-depth, hands-on training all while discovering the many facets of OneStream Software. Two full days with three tracks of content were provided. In addition to the conference, attendees experienced all Boston had to offer including an evening at historic Faneuil Hall, an excursion to Fenway Park and exclusive access to the New England Aquarium.

"OneStream's mission is that every customer is a reference and success with OneStream Software", said Eric Davidson, VP of Knowledge Management. "Bringing our customers and partners together to learn and share experiences helps us all meet the goals of that mission. On the final day, when asked whether attendees learned something at the conference that they can take away and put immediately to work for them, every hand shot up."

The next OneStream Splash User Conference is planned for May 14-18, 2016 in Austin, Texas. In addition to keynote speeches, breakout sessions and in-depth advanced training, an additional day has been added for hands-on, focused workshops. Attendees will be able to register in August.
