INDUSTRY STANDARD FOR PARTICIPANT PAYMENT AUTOMATION

ClinCard optimizes clinical trial performance by improving participant engagement and retention while eliminating the administrative burdens that can distract from research execution.

ClinCard is proven to:

Improve participant engagement and retention

Eliminate manual
workflows

Optimize site performance

Improve Participant Engagement and Retention

ClinCard is a payment automation software that streamlines participant reimbursements and stipends, eliminating financial hurdles that may keep participants from staying enrolled in a clinical trial. Participants receive funds in real-time via a reloadable prepaid Mastercard or direct deposit. ClinCard incorporates automated (local language) notifications via email or text message, including payment status and visit reminders, ensuring participants remain engaged throughout the study.

Eliminate Administrative Burdens

Research sites are empowered through a streamlined payment workflow that removes tedious, manual processes. ClinCard is configurable to meet the needs of any study, market, therapeutic area, phase, etc., ensuring that payments are made accurately and in accordance with the study protocol. This automation significantly reduces the time sites spend on payment administration, allowing site staff to focus on research and participant care.

Increase site satisfaction with a streamlined payment workflow, while enhancing financial transparency.

Enhance Financial Transparency and Enable IRS Tax Compliance

ClinCard includes a comprehensive reporting suite, providing increased financial visibility and improved control and budget planning. Robust tax support functionality, including 1099 reporting, automatic withholding, TIN validation and more removes the headache and enhances the site's ability to remain IRS tax compliant.

Remove Logistical Hurdles to Clinical Trial Participation with Rideshare Integration

With a heightened focus on participant-centric clinical trials, travel services are becoming more prevalent. Through the ClinCard portal, site coordinators can seamlessly request a ride for participants with a real-time view into ride status. This offering removes out-of-pocket costs and provides added convenience for participants, improving satisfaction and retention. Centralizing the payments and travel budget within a singular platform provides complete financial control, transparency and predictability for all participant-related expenditures.
