

Source faster, smarter and better with Entelo's Recruiting Automation Solution

As the competition for top talent intensifies, we've experienced a fundamental shift in how companies approach talent acquisition. The demand for outbound recruiting means that it's getting increasingly difficult to find qualified candidates using traditional inbound recruiting strategies. In fact, 47% of recruiters say they cannot find enough qualified candidates for their open roles.

On average, recruiters spend 13 hours/week (almost two full days!) sourcing candidates for a single role. With most recruiters sourcing multiple roles concurrently, they often have no time remaining to build meaningful relationships with candidates.

Given these constraints around time, resources, and candidate volume, over 50% of recruiters won't meet their hiring goals. There has to be a better approach.

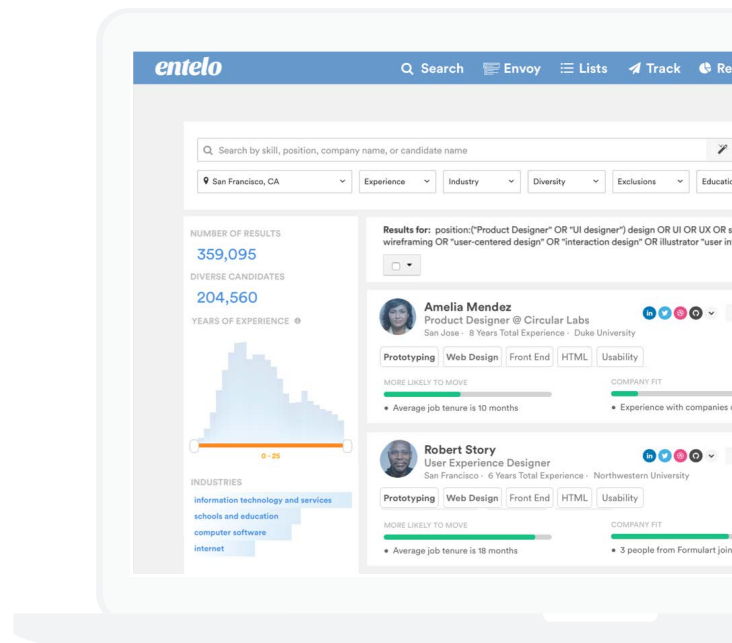

Designed with the modern recruiter's daily workflow in mind, Entelo leverages artificial intelligence, machine learning, and predictive analytics, to help your team source faster, smarter and better.

Focus your efforts where it counts with the most intelligent recruiting automation solution in the market.

"During a period of fast-paced growth, we've been able to scale our recruiting pipeline quickly without sacrificing the quality."
