

Lincoln, RI - Lighthouse Computer Services (<http://www.lighthousecs.com>) an award-winning IBM and Microsoft services regional leader, announced today that Colm Whelan has joined the firm as Vice President of Cloud Solutions to help extend and expand Lighthouse's success in providing premier IT business services to top companies in the Northeast.

Lighthouse CEO Tom Mrva noted: "The undeniable movement towards cloud deployments led us to look for a performance-proven visionary who would fit in with our ethos of exceptional service. We were extremely gratified to find someone of Colm's caliber to help further our commitment to technology innovation – especially after the momentous launch of the Microsoft and IBM Cloud Services partnership."

Colm added: "I'm fortunate to be joining an IT Services leader recognized for delivering top quality service. And, of course, I'm excited to work with Lighthouse's growing portfolio of Cloud solutions – from public cloud solutions including Office 365, Azure, IBM and SoftLayer to private cloud solutions for datacenter virtualization and management."

Originally from Ireland, now living in Massachusetts, Colm brings decades of IT services and 100's of Microsoft Cloud implementations to his new position. Most recently, he was instrumental in assisting large accounts with their Cloud strategies as a member of a Team named Microsoft Partner of the Year for the Northeast four years in a row.
