Bonnie Lane began practicing law in 2007, and joined Goodman Allen Donnelly's medical malpractice defense team in the firm's Norfolk office in 2016. Her experience working with a Tidewater firm focused primarily on civil defense litigation. This included the representation and defense of Virginia Workers' Compensation and Longshore and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act claims, in federal and state courts, at all stages through appeal to highest court. She also advised and defended insurance companies in products liability and personal injury cases, grocery and department stores in premises liability cases, and national companies involved in asbestos litigation throughout Virginia, in all stages of litigation. She has successfully litigated bench and jury trials throughout the Commonwealth, and has submitted numerous briefs to and presented oral argument in Virginia's state appellate courts.

Bonnie was named to Virginia Business Magazine's Legal Elite, Young Lawyers list from 2015 through 2018. Her article, "Mental Health Services in Virginia: Where are We Now?" was published in the Spring 2016 issue of Hampton Roads Physician, highlighting various statutory and regulatory changes in reaction to high-profile violent acts committed in the Commonwealth in recent years.
