

SOLUTIONS THAT SIMPLIFY THE WAY YOU MANAGE YOUR FACILITY.

Facility operators dedicate years — sometimes even their entire careers — to caring for and maintaining their buildings. This hard work isn't just a job. It's a legacy, and legacies should be preserved.

At AkitaBox, we work to preserve these legacies by helping organizations harness their building data. Utilizing this data, facility managers are empowered to make informed decisions when it comes to the management and maintenance of their facility's space and assets.

Through a combination of customized data collection services and best-in-class facility management software, we are on a mission to empower building teams to make data-driven decisions that impact the places they live, work and play.

Based out of Madison, Wisconsin, our in-house team of software engineers, implementation specialists and customer success managers are dedicated to building tools that improve operational efficiency and drive continuous improvement for facility management professionals and their teams.
