Why does your gut hurt? High FODMAPs

Funny word, but FODMAPs are the key reason why many people suffer from IBS, constipation, diarrhea, gas, and bloating.

FODMAPs are certain types of carbohydrates that are hard to digest. When we use a low-FODMAP fibre in our diet, we make the job of our digestive tract easier and reduce the occurrence of unpleasant symptoms such as bloating, abdominal pain, constipation, and diarrhea.

Fibres such as inulin, psyllium, bran, and wheat are high-FODMAP short-chain fermentable carbohydrates which are troublesome for IBS and the digestive system. Inulin is an inexpensive ingredient that many food companies use to make a "fibre claim" on their labels (though it is argued that many of these so-called fibres aren't fibre). Psyllium may be familiar, as it is the basis for many popular fibre additives, but it can be as hard on your digestion as bran and wheat.

The most powerful, effective digestive enzymes

Good health starts in your gut. These new intensive-strength enzyme formulas target specific digestive issues to REJUVENATE YOUR LIFE!

High-stress levels, inflammation, poor dietary, and lifestyle choices all wreak havoc on the digestive system. Digestive complaints include bloating, gas, cramping, and feeling tired after eating. In fact, nearly one in three people experience some type of digestive problem. Although the body produces its own digestive enzymes, it may not be producing enough.

The typical benefits of enzyme supplementation include reduced digestive distress, increased energy, and improved regularity.

How the Heart, Brain, and Gut Influence Mental Health

You've heard of a "gut feeling"? Sometimes when we have a decision to make we just have a feeling come over us. We just know what to do.

We've been told our decisions come from the brain, but science now understands we have two other brains in our bodies; the "gut brain" and the "heart brain." Each of these three brains function independently. But there is enough strong evidence to show that they also work together to influence who we are and how we interact with the world around us.

Give all three brains what they need each day with this powerful, full-nutrient supplement kit:

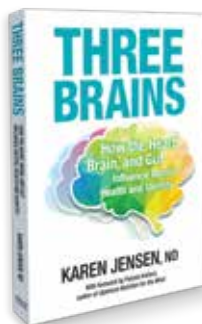

The Daily Brain kit

includes five supplements that are all essential for three-brain health:

- Sharp-PS phosphatidylserine supports memory and concentration
- Grapeseed extract and Meriva curcumin deliver strong antioxidant and anti-inflammatory support
