The Fine Art of Recruiting:

The Peabody Essex Museum Adds ClearCompany's Industry-Leading Software to Their Amazing Collection

The Customer

Over the last 20 years, the Peabody Essex Museum (PEM) in Salem, Massachusetts has distinguished itself as one of the fastest-growing art museums in North America. Founded in 1799, it is also the country's oldest continuously operating museum. This thriving New England institution has completed two significant expansions in the last 17 years and is currently supported by the collective efforts of over 400 employees, interns, and volunteers.

The Peabody Essex Museum holds more than 840,000 works of historical and cultural art, including two large libraries with over 400,000 books and manuscripts.

The Problem

A key challenge of running such a large cultural institution is not only maintaining the size of your staff, but also finding employees with diverse skill sets. From world-class curators that involve international searches, to a core of volunteers and everything in between, PEM needed a system that could help them find the best talent for any position.

Their old paper process for recruiting and onboarding couldn't keep up with their staffing needs, especially for their crew of frontline staff. They had separate paper applications for employment, internships and volunteers, and no centralized record system to keep it all organized. And onboarding meant sending out a large and expensive package of forms that would be completed and reviewed on the first day of work. To continue providing transformative, one-of-a-kind experiences to their visitors, PEM would need a more advanced talent process.

Our recruiting and onboarding process before ClearCompany was archaic to say the least.

Candidates were still completing a paper employment application in person the day of their interview. Volunteers had to mail in an application. We sent new hires a very expensive and arduously assembled employment package with a plethora of material, all collected by paper with nothing automated.

The Solution

After an exhaustive evaluation process comparing a dozen different software products, PEM chose ClearCompany to help them to build their ideal talent acquisition process. Only ClearCompany combined the flexibility to recruit for a wide variety of positions with powerful tools that would help them find, hire, and engage top talent faster.

PEM worked closely with their dedicated Implementation Manager to quickly create a streamlined recruiting process, with advanced tools like interview scheduling, shareable candidate notes, bulk actions for advancing and communicating with multiple candidates, and the industry's most advanced integration with their payroll provider, ADP, to tie it all together. They also upgraded their onboarding system, bringing all forms online, giving every new employee a jump start on their career at PEM. Centralized online files for every candidate and employee empowered HR and hiring managers to quickly find the most qualified applicants for their open positions. Candidates and new employees now have a smoother hiring experience, and hiring managers are more involved in the process at every step.

"Younger candidates adapt and move very well through the application process. They expect an on-line application experience and are appreciative to be able to complete all of their onboarding forms on their own time."

ClearCompany offers a comprehensive two-way integration with several of ADP's payroll systems, providing clients with an amazing all-in-one HCM platform.

The bi-directional connector with ADP and ClearCompany has been a game changer for us. It's been absolutely phenomenal. Integrating onboarding materials directly with our payroll system has been a massive time saver for us.

And the advanced bi-directional integration with ADP passes candidate and employee information to and from ClearCompany, ensuring one complete, always up-to-date record for every staff member.
