Antique Cinnamon / Antique White Pepper

The unusual attraction of the Antique Style patterns from Bauscher lies in the associations they conjure up. They tell of times long gone and past cultures. Thus the graphic ornamentation of the patterns Antique Cinnamon and Antique White Pepper brings to mind old tiles on a Moorish patio. The refined execution conveys the illusion of a patina that may be used for many years. Its muted earthy colors seems to have been bleached by the Mediterranean sun.

Antique Sea Salt

Antique Sea Salt shows the Used Look theme in its own way. The gray-blue color nuances lend the pattern an especially elegant note. The finely woven ornamentation fascinates through the charm of the imperfect that only emerges after long use. Hints of dainty lace or exquisite embroidery form a tempting frame around the culinary delight.

Antique Mokka

Antique Mokka presents itself in warm brown shades. This variant of the Antique pattern from Bauscher takes the play with the seemingly flawed and extremely worn to new heights. Over a large part of the porcelain surface, the arabesque ornamentation is so reduced, that is nearly no longer visible. This delicate effect underlines the modern Vintage Style and encourages new, unfamiliar food presentations.

Antique Olive

Antique Olive awakes feelings of nostalgia. The pattern reminds of gently climbing vines on an old brick wall or faded tapestries in shadowy Italian palaces. This Mediterranean impression is emphasized by the warm olive coloring of the pattern. An inspiring ambiance for fresh food presentations – as a stage for casual dining or contemporary experimental food.
