Why is preventive care testing important?

The picture of your pet's health isn't complete without comprehensive testing. These tests often detect illness that can't be discovered with a physical examination alone.

- Your pet's blood values may change over time. These changes are often subtle, so individual results may appear to be "normal."
- Every animal is unique, so it's important to know what a normal result is for your pet. By establishing your pet's baseline values during health, we have something to compare his or her results to on a yearly basis.
- Trending these results helps us diagnose problems earlier and respond quickly. Early detection leads to better outcomes, improved quality of life and lower treatment costs, should they arise.
