The award and nominations should not be construed as an endorsement or testimonial of Bramshill's Investment advisory services and past performance may not be indicative of future results. Bramshill is an investment adviser that offers its strategies in separately managed account and mutual fund format. Entry is available to U.S. and Canadian managers that have a minimum 36-month track record ending, pay an application fee and submit performance data to HFM for consideration. A judging panel consisting of HFM representations, institutional/private investors and industry experts will judge the applicants based on performance, qualitative information and structural criteria. Investing involves risk, including the potential loss of principal, and there can be no assurance that any particular product or strategy will prove profitable. The return since inception refers to the net performance of the Bramshill Income Performance strategy from inception to September 2016. The Firm's CIO and Founder began managing the strategy in January 2009, while associated with an unaffiliated investment firm, and transitioned the strategy to Bramshill upon its founding in May 2012.
