

Suzuki Grand Vitara Shines in Reliability Test

Leading British consumer warranty supplier Warranty Direct has identified the Suzuki Grand Vitara as the UK market's second most reliable sports utility vehicle (SUV).

The company used its unique reliability index survey to identify the most - and the least - reliable SUVs and all-wheel drive cars on the market. The analysis was based on Warranty Direct's database of approximately 150000 units, all aged between three and eight years.

The index takes a number of key factors into account, including how often vehicles break down, the average repair cost, and the time spent in the workshop. These factors are used to calculate an overall reliability score. The lower the score, the more reliable the vehicle.

Taking all the factors into account, Suzuki's Grand Vitara was placed second, with a score of 33,01. The remainder of the top five places were occupied by Honda's CR-V, Toyota's RAV4, the Mitsubishi Shogun, and Kia's Sorento.

In one of the key factors, that of the most affordable vehicle to repair, the Suzuki Grand Vitara reflected the lowest average repair cost.

Suzuki's Grand Vitara continues to enjoy an admirable reputation for quality and reliability in South Africa, where it is a player in the compact SUV sector.