

Complex Criminal &
Civil Litigation
Legal NEWS

The Law Offices of
Robert G. Stahl, LLC
www.StahlEsq.com

52 Duane St.
New York City 212-755-3300
220 St. Paul St.
Westfield, NJ 908-301-9001

Robert G. Stahl, Esq.
RStahl@StahlEsq.com
Laura K. Gasiorowski, of Counsel

---

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
THURSDAY, August 8, 2013

---

Statement from Robert G. Stahl, Esq.,
Attorney for Dias Kadyrbayev

---

(BOSTON) — While Dias's Indictment was not unexpected, it was certainly disappointing. As I said in the beginning of this case, Dias Kadyrbayev did not obstruct justice and did not knowingly or intentionally take evidence from Dzohkhar Tsarnaev's dorm room.

My young client, like all of Dzokhar's friends at U-Mass, Dartmouth, was shocked and horrified to learn that someone he knew was involved in the terrible Marathon bombing. Even though he was literally stunned and in fear, and even though he is from a country where the police are routinely distrusted, from the moment the authorities approached him he has fully cooperated.

Dias is a typical young, foreign college student who loves America and has worked hard to be accepted in the community. He cooperated fully with the FBI and answered their questions for almost 12 hours over two days without an attorney or Consular official present. Dias and the others voluntarily turned over the computer from Tsarnaev's room and told the FBI where they could find the backpack that contained a packet of fireworks. The FBI recovered all of the items because of Dias's complete cooperation with their investigation.

(More)

Dias and his family are deeply saddened by the tragedy that occurred and their thoughts and prayers continue to be with those injured and killed, and their families.

Despite the rush to judgment and, now, the present charges, Dias trusts the American justice system and looks forward to proving his innocence at trial.

###

Contact:

Robert G. Stahl, Esq.
212-755-3300
RStahl@StahlEsq.com

Additional Contact:

Editors Note: If you are unable to contact Mr. Stahl please call Richard Lavinthal at PRforLAW, LLC Legal Media Relations, 202-596-1176 or email PRexpert@PRforLAW.com for help facilitating and coordinating your media request, or to be added to a media list for this case.