Visualize your opportunities

Identify contractors that are interested in specific projects and market your products directly to key players.

Target decision makers

Don't miss key opportunities for marketing your products, initiate conversations before important decisions are made.

Gain a competitive edge

Save time searching for the right projects and spend more time marketing your products.

The Buyer Activity Report gives you access to a comprehensive list of projects throughout the construction lifecycle, plus information about contractors in your trade who are interested in each project. Start your sales process early—without waiting for potential buyers to come to you.

Perform a quick search to match priority projects with your products, and identify contractors who are likely to submit a bid. Qualify a contractor's interest in a project based on their activity level.

Why choose ConstructConnect?

ConstructConnect is the only data provider with national U.S. coverage and the strongest Canadian coverage available. We are also an Innovation Partner of the AIA, which means we track more private projects from the earliest information sources—owners and architects.

We fully digitize all documents, including plans and specifications, giving you access to product needs much earlier in the project cycle. From our dedicated source specialists for the latest extraction technologies, ConstructConnect uses all possible resources to give you the most accurate, dependable project information available.
