- Creating and implementing product marketing plans, unit forecasting, and pricing strategies.
- Leading New Product Introduction (NPI) teams.
- Providing support in the development and execution of the long-term vision for the product messaging and product marketing strategies.
- Communicating and implementing product marketing and messaging strategies to all of the relevant participants and stakeholders.
- Developing and managing the overall product management process.
- Ensuring compliance and consistency in the internal application of the product management discipline.
- Developing, implementing, and managing the product management and customer service scorecards to identify trends to support the development of product support materials and positive user experience.
- Conducting critical reviews of the Human Health product portfolios to identify needed actions to discontinue poor performing products, overlapping products, products that require repositioning or re-launching, as well as making recommendations for line extensions, such as new packaging, accessories or the addition of new formulations to address existing or future market needs.
- Managing, monitoring and assisting in the forecasting/forecasting of the product management portion of the marketing and sector annual budget.
- Managing control documents related to all aspects of the product management process.
- Leading and developing a high functioning product management team through coaching, mentoring, and training.
- Participating in recruitment activities.
- Other projects and tasks, as assigned.

What do you need to succeed?

- Bachelor's Degree in marketing or other related field. An MBA is considered an asset.
- 4-8 years of experience in brand or product strategy, marketing or related role. B2B experience in a consumer packaged goods environment is considered an asset.
- Strong Microsoft Office skills (word, excel, PowerPoint, outlook). Experience using "Wrike" is considered an asset.

- Demonstrated ability to lead, manage, and execute large complex projects.
- Demonstrated leadership and mentoring skills.
- Strong attention to detail, time management, and collaboration skills.
- Strong verbal and written communication skills.
- Ability to build and maintain strong relationships with both internal and external clients.
- Ability to work in a fast-paced environment with frequently shifting priorities.
- Ability to work additional hours and/or outside regular business as needed.
- Ability to Travel nationally and internationally 20 days or more throughout the year to attend conferences and tradeshow.
