Protect Your Dental Practice's Workers, Patients & Liability

Does Your Health & Safety Program Meet OSHA Requirements?

Has It Been Communicated Properly to Your Employees?

Having an expert assist you in conducting a thorough assessment is vital to determining your dental practice's risk position and prevention needs in regard to patient and worker safety during today's challenges. There's no better time than now to properly train your work family by an expert familiar with COVID-19 infection control and safety in a dental work environment. A virtual safety training is a contactless approach for your team to recognize and protect workers and patients from the most common safety & health hazards in their work environment.
